Palmer Has View Army Must Stay

Pershing's Former Aide Says Hitler Would Have to Conquer or Encircle U. S.

Supports F.D.R.

Holds Opinion Nation Is in Grave Danger of Attack

Washington, July 22 (AP)—Senator Taft (R., Ohio) proposed today that Congress limit the service of selectees, reserves and National Guardsmen to 16 months instead of the present 12 months.

Taft laid this proposal before the Senate military affairs committee after a group of witnesses, most of them opponents, had testified on the effects of pending proposals to extend indefinitely the period of service for citizen soldiers.

Chairman Reynolds (D., N. C.) directed that Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, be queried as to the effect of Taft's plan, which the Ohio senator said would provide for the release of 75,000 draftees from the army each month, with none serving more than 16 months.

As outlined by Taft, the proposal would provide the army with 1,272,000 trained officers and men at all times. The remainder of a 1,948,000 total force would be made up of those undergoing preliminary training.

As new selectees were brought in at the rate of 75,000 a month, he said, the reserve would be increased by that number.

Washington, July 22 (AP)—Gen. John McAuley Palmer, retired, told the Senate Military Committee today it was his opinion that Adolf Hitler, in order to accomplish his aims, must "conquer or encircle the United States."

Testifying in support of legislation to retain selectees, reserves and national guardsmen in army service beyond the present limit of one year, Palmer warned that the army would disintegrate at a critical time if this course were not followed.

"In my opinion," said Palmer, a former assistant chief of staff under Gen. John J. Pershing, "our peril is greater than it ever has been in our history. All of the forces of Nazism are deployed against us. In order to achieve his aim, Hitler must conquer or encircle the United States."

The Rev. A. J. Muste, representing the Fellowship of Reconciliation, opposed the legislation on the grounds that if "decent pay" were offered, sufficient army volunteers could be obtained without what he said would be the break of an "implied promise" that selectees would not be retained more than a year.

Administration lieutenants pushing for approval of the bill were told the Senate's endorsement of a far-reaching property seizure measure after only one day's debate.

Seizure Measure Passes
After a tumultuous session, the property seizure measure was approved on a voice vote late yesterday just as it came from the Senate military committee.

Still to be considered by the House where the military affairs committee arranged to take it up today, the bill would permit the President to take over in the interest of national defense both military and naval articles and

This enclosure at the corner of Broadway and West O'Reilly street is one erected to receive contributions of scrap aluminum for national defense purposes and symbolizes the drive. Several "metal-minded" citizens have deposited scrap pieces here and others probably will do so. It represents only a fractional portion of what will be collected locally this week in all wards.

Hearings to Begin August 1 on Area Milk Deliveries

Hearing Site to Be Picked by National Officials; Specific Proposals Must Be Filed

Albany, N. Y., July 22 (AP)—Dairy farmers in the New York milkshed will get a chance to voice their pleas for higher prices August 1, when hearings begin on suggested changes in the federal-state order regulating the rich metropolitan market.

The Agriculture Department at Washington said yesterday the hearing site will be announced. Specific proposals for consideration must be filed with the office of the department's hearing clerk by Saturday.

Governor Lehman and Owen D. Young, retired Van Hornesville industrialist, last week urged Secretary Wickard to act quickly on the hearings to alleviate an acute drought situation.

Lehman, Young and State Agriculture Commissioner Holton V. Noyes discussed with Wickard a petition filed by representatives of 55,000 milkshed dairymen seeking a hearing on proposals to raise the fluid milk price from $2.88 a hundredweight (47 quarts) to $3.82.

Earlier, the dairy farmers' union, claiming 23,000 members in New York, Vermont and Pennsylvania, recessed an eight-day strike aimed to force a $3 uniform milk payment as against an estimated $2.15 for July. Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Jersey producers also supply the New York city market.

After hearings narrow down proposed amendments to the federal-state order, they must be approved by a two-thirds vote of the dairymen involved before they become effective.

The Niagara frontier cooperative milk producers bargaining agency yesterday petitioned Noyes to amend the Niagara frontier milk marketing order, to provide fluid prices rising ranging from 90 cents to $1.70 a hundredweight.

The agency, representing 3,544 Buffalo area dairy farmers, proposes payments of $3.90 a hundredweight when the New York butter price is below 47½ cents a pound, $4.30 with butter between 47½ and 57½ cents and $4.70 when it is above 57½.

Producers recently rejected a proposed 20-cent increase from the current $3 fluid payment.

Corn Outlook Is Bright

Chicago, July 22 (AP)—Reports of a brilliant national corn outlook are flooding the Chicago market these days as the 1941 crop races days ahead of schedule into the vital ear forming period. Despite the optimistic reports, prices of corn, highest since 1937, have shown little weakness. Widespread demand for feed grains to stimulate output of livestock products in the war-time emergency is having a direct effect on corn, principal feed grain.

Tax Compromise Passes

Trenton, N. J., July 22 (AP)—After day and night caucuses, a $32,000,000 railroad delinquent tax compromise passed the New Jersey legislature today at 7:30 a. m. (E.S.T.).

Frank Naccarato, Aged Resident, Takes Own Life

Coroner McCordle Gives Verdict in Death of Cordts Street Man by Shooting

Frank Naccarato, 79, committed suicide this morning in a small room in his home, 7 Cordts street, by placing a 12 gauge shotgun muzzle in his mouth, and discharging the gun with the use of a rag attached to the trigger and hitched to his foot as he sat in a chair. The discharge of the gun blew the entire front of his head off. Death was instantaneous.

Coroner Frank J. McCordle of Rosendale, who was called by the police department, after an investigation issued a verdict of suicide from self-inflicted gunshot wounds.

The coroner said that the aged man had left a note written in Italian. The contents of the note were not made public.

Policemen George P. Bowers, Wesley Cramer and Thomas McGrane assisted the coroner in his investigation.

From the story learned by the coroner the aged man was still in bed when his wife left the house to work in the garden in the rear. The wife said she heard no sound of a shot, but when she entered the house later she discovered the body of her husband.

It was evident from the investigation made that the aged man after his wife left the house arose, partly dressed himself and then entered the small eight by 10 foot room, adjoining the kitchen on the first floor of the house.

Naccarato had placed but one shell in the double-barreled shotgun, and in order to pull the trigger he had obtained a long piece of white cloth. One end of the cloth he tied to the trigger of the shotgun, and the other end he attached to his foot.

Then he sat down in the kitchen chair and placing the barrel of the gun in his mouth discharged it by moving his foot to which the other end of the cloth was tied.

It is thought that by placing the barrel of the gun in his mouth the sound of the discharge was muffled, for the coroner said that the wife had told him she had heard no shot fired, and none of the neighbors appeared to have heard the discharge of the gun.

When found the aged man was still sitting upright in the chair with the entire front of his face blown off. Blood and pieces of flesh covered the floor, walls and ceiling of the little room, used as a sort of storage space.

At the request of the family Coroner McCordle after completing his investigation turned the body over to Undertaker Henry Bruck.

The aged man is survived by his wife and several children.

Sullivan's $425,000,000 Loan Is Made to British for Early Arms Contract

Troopers, County Police Will Turn Over All Seized Machines to Defense

'Hitler' Helps

Texans Throw Gifts at Hitler's Likeness in Lubbock

(By The Associated Press)

Americans were off to a light-hearted start today on a great national aluminum collection drive, tossing all kinds of shiny gadgets into collection pens in busy city streets and town squares.

In Sullivan county New York State Police and county officials announced yesterday they would turn over all slot machines seized in the resort area, and Utica police made like donations.

The oddments included beside slot machines, a cast for a broken finger, and the favorite ice cream mold of Governor Lehman of New York, as well as skillets, kettles and other utensils from America's kitchens furnished the bulk of the aluminum scrap.

So encouraging, indeed, was the initial response yesterday that defense officials began raising their sights from an original estimate of 20,000,000 pounds in donations to 30,000,000 or possibly 40,000,000 pounds.

At Tacoma, Wash., a man turned up at the mayor's office with seven sacks of aluminum pots and pans which he explained he had purchased in a house to house canvass.

Chicago's new $57,000,000 subway system will be completed without ornamental aluminum trim originally planned for the station walls. Painted concrete will be substituted, the engineers announced.

Contributions sorted at Philadelphia included a silver-plated loving cup inscribed: "Given by the German-American Bund; Quoit Tournament, 1937."

A nine-year-old girl at Enid, Okla., turned in a set of doll-house utensils and a sand pile scoop, and Lubbock, Texas, officials ordered a likeness of Hitler set up on the courthouse lawn to furnish a target for contributors who were invited to use their aluminum contributions as missiles.

The scrap metal will be used in making parts for airplanes, tanks, battleships and other defense material.

Mrs. Lehman expects to have two dozen pieces of discarded kitchen ware from the executive mansion and the family's Westchester country home, she informed Boy and Girl Scout solicitors.

New Goal Is Set Up

New York, July 22 (AP)—New York has surpassed by a wide margin its original goal in the registration of air-raid wardens and has set up a new one. The goal established at the beginning of the drive was 62,011, but through yesterday 62,651 persons had registered. Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine set 100,000 as the new goal.

LaGuardia Will Do Battle With O'Dwyer for New York Mayoralty Post

New York, July 22 (AP)—New York's political battle lines were drawn today with Mayor F. H. LaGuardia seeking a third term in office and one of the nation's best known crusading prosecutors, William O'Dwyer of Brooklyn, representing the opposition.

The busy mayor, dividing his time between New York and his Washington office as director of civilian defense, announced his candidacy in a radio talk last night with the avowed support of the Fusion party that sent him to city hall in 1933 and 1937 and the American Labor Party.

He declared he definitely would not enter the Democratic primary against O'Dwyer but let it be known that he would accept the Republican nomination provided Republican endorsement also was given to his present city controller, Joseph D. McGoldrick, and City Council President Newbold Morris.

Thus, while the way still was clear for the Republicans to nominate a third candidate, political observers considered that course unlikely and looked upon LaGuardia and O'Dwyer as the final

R. F. C. Passes Upon Grant With F.D.R.'s Approval at Request of Jesse Jones

Washington, July 22 (AP)—The Federal Loan Agency announced today a $425,000,000 loan to Great Britain, against an estimated $500,000,000 worth of collateral, to help the British pay for war supplies ordered in the United States prior to enactment of the lend-lease program.

The loan was authorized by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with the approval of President Roosevelt and at the request of Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, the agency said in a statement.

The deal was arranged, the statement explained, "for the purpose of providing the British with dollar exchange without having to sell their securities and investments at forced sale."

Funds to the total of $425,000,000 will be paid out to the British at the rate of approximately $100,000,000 a month, under terms of the deal, and the loan, bearing interest at three per cent annually, will mature in 15 years. It may then be extended for five years provided two-thirds of the principal has been repaid.

Amortization Is Pledged
Interest and dividends from the collateral securities to be pledged to the R.F.C., however, plus earnings assigned to it from United States branches of 41 British insurance companies, was described in the statement as adequate to amortize the entire loan by the end of the maturity period.

The loan agency's statement said this new financial assistance to Britain was authorized under a law enacted last month which specified the R.F.C. could make loans to a foreign government to enable that government to get maximum dollar exchange value for its property in this country.

When the lend-lease program was enacted the British already had piled up huge orders for munitions here. It was said at the time they had funds, securities and other property available to meet those obligations but required lend-lease assistance in supplying future needs.

To turn the securities into dollars, however, meant marketing them in this country. In discussing the loan now authorized, Secretary Morgenthau said recently that conditions on American markets had presented difficulties in this regard and a loan at this time was desirable to assure the British obtaining maximum value.

Whether one loan will be adequate to meet all British needs was not stated. Morgenthau said Britain's obligations to U. S. manufacturers at the first of the year amounted to between $1,300,000,000 and $1,400,000,000 but he could not estimate how much this had been reduced in the six months since then.

Numbers Mailed

Questionnaires have been mailed by the Kingston Selective Service Board to registrants holding order numbers 2481 to 2506, inclusive.

Duties Re-coordinated

Herzog said duties of key executives had been re-coordinated to bring about maximum efficiency. In this connection William M. Coyne, Syracuse, was put in charge of an information service to be concerned with all defense projects.

Coyne, a former newspaperman, has been associated with the W. P. A. information service six years. He will collaborate with the War Department in acquiring the public, through the press and radio, with W. P. A. defense activity.

Such projects have had an important part in the W. P. A. program since 1936 according to Herzog, although they have been little publicized.

Major defense projects, already under way, and to be continued in the fiscal year, include: Improvement of Steward Field, West Point, a flying field for national military academy cadets.

Continuation of work at Mitchell Field, L. I., where by the end of the year approximately $3,000,000 will have been spent on runways, hangars, and sanitary facilities on the 650-acre tract.

Improvements at Camp Upton, L. I., Madison Barracks, Fort Ontario, Pine Camp, the Watervliet Arsenal, and the government warehouse in Schenectady.

About $350,000,000 in federal funds have been expended in the W. P. A. area since the program was inaugurated. It now is being operated on a greatly curtailed scale.

Leaders of G.O.P. Will Honor Dead Ulster Chief Elting

President of Club Gives List of Those Who Will Attend Funeral of Philip Elting

Members of the Republican party who are prominent in the state and nation will join local groups tomorrow in paying final tribute to the late Philip Elting, former county leader for whom funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock at his home at 106 Maiden Lane.

President William M. Chadbourne of the National Republican Club has appointed a committee to attend the funeral service and the list of names includes District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York who was a candidate for the presidential nomination at the last Republican convention in Philadelphia. Mr. Dewey was a personal friend of Mr. Elting.

Members of the Ulster County Bar Association will meet at the county court house Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock and proceed in a body to the residence of Philip Elting on Maiden Lane, to attend the funeral service. All members are asked to meet promptly at the designated time and place.

The list of those named on the committee by President Chadbourne of the National Republican club follows:

W.P.A. Allocates Defense Monies

City and County Are Not Included in $9,600,000 Building Program

According to an Associated Press dispatch today there is to be $9,600,000 of W. P. A. funds allocated to the state, outside of New York city, to be used for national defense projects. None of this sum will be allotted to Ulster county, since there are no national defense projects under construction in the city or county.

According to the Associated Press New York W. P. A. expenditures in the fiscal year beginning July 1 are to be geared to national defense projects, outside New York city proper.

Announcement of operations expected to cost approximately $16,000,000, exclusive of matching contributions by the War Department or local communities, came today from Lester H. Herzog, upstate W. P. A. administrator. The money will be paid for labor, materials, and equipment.

Herzog said duties of key executives had been re-coordinated to bring about maximum efficiency. In this connection William M. Coyne, Syracuse, was put in charge of an information service to be concerned with all defense projects.

Coyne, a former newspaperman, has been associated with the W. P. A. information service six years. He will collaborate with the War Department in acquiring the public, through the press and radio, with W. P. A. defense activity.

Outcome of Reds' War Depends Upon Mobility, Morale

Russian Retreat to Solid Line Must Be Done Carefully to Stem Possible Debacle

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
(Freeman Special News Service)

With the continuance of the fierce Nazi pressure against the Russian battle line we would seem to be nearing rapidly a crucial operation which will give us a better gauge of the efficiency of the Red military organization and the accuracy of the persistent German claim that the Bolshevik army is on the point of dissolution.

I refer to what looks like the impending necessity of widespread Russian withdrawals for the purpose of straightening their vast line and the reforming of fresh defenses farther east—a movement which represents one of the most difficult that any high command can undertake.

The developing of such a great retirement will present the Nazis with the opportunity for offensives which might easily turn an orderly strategic withdrawal into a debacle unless it be carried out with consummate skill. Thus the outcome of the Russo-German war must depend on whether the Red Army can retain its mobility—and its morale.

Too Much to Expect
While the Bolsheviks have been doing a magnificent job of holding their lines against superior German strength, it would be too much to expect that this defense could continue along the present front. We have the great Salient thrust into the center of the Russian line to the grave danger of the defense; the Nazi drive against Leningrad has created the threat of a turning movement on the northern end of the line; and just now on the southern part of the front the Germans are making a swift thrust down the Dnieper river which is calculated to cut off a large Russian force.

Meanwhile the Germans continue sweeping claims of widespread destruction of red fighting units, even up to the size of a division of 15,000 men. This is being achieved by the use of swiftly driving tank units which encircle bodies of Russian troops and hold them in this steel trap while the hell-diving Nazi bombers slaughter them or force their surrender.

In this manner the invaders are carrying out their announced purpose of destroying the Red Army. And the way the fighting is going it is apparent that the Nazis are, as they claim, more bent on this grim and bloody business than on the capture of cities. The fall of the cities will be automatic if the fighting men are wiped out.

Troops Must Be Available
So, taking it all in all, it is reasonable to assume that it won't be long before the Russians will be thrown back, or have to withdraw to new lines. Fresh troops must be available now from the recent mobilization to support such a movement. In due course the Red line likely will move to the east of the capital, abandoning western Russia to the enemy. That line perhaps will follow roughly the line of the Volga river.

However, such a great withdrawal needn't represent an irreparable disaster, or anything like it. As already indicated, if the Bolsheviks can retain their mobility, they can.

Tough Path Is Admitted By Berlin

Russians Say 200 Nazi Planes Take Part in Raid Upon Red Capital

Japan Mobilizes

London Reports Large Mobilization All Over Japan

(By The Associated Press)

German luftwaffe pilots reported they left great fires raging in the heart of Moscow today, while in the field the Nazi high command asserted that the leadership of Russia's Red armies was crumbling under the impact of the month-old blitzkrieg invasion.

D.N.B., the official German news agency, said that Nazi warplanes also blasted retreating Soviet troop columns, railway lines and tank concentrations along the entire eastern front and that a number of trains on the Leningrad-Moscow line were derailed by bombings.

While the Germans declared Moscow was hard hit by thousands of incendiary and high-explosive bombs, showered down in a five and one-half hour raid during the night, dispatches from the Soviet capital itself said the assault was "comparatively harmless."

Berlin described the raid as "one of the heaviest carried out by the German air force," comparable with the luftwaffe's fiercest attacks on England.

On the fighting front, Adolf Hitler's high command asserted that Nazi breakthrough operations "have torn the Soviet frontier defense into disconnected groups."

"Despite stout local resistance and stubbornly conducted counterattacks, uniform leadership of the enemy no longer is apparent," the German communiqué said.

"On the entire east front, operations aiming at the crushing and destruction of individual groups of Soviet armed forces continue steadily."

In comparison with previous communiques, the Nazi high command's mention of both "stout" resistance and "stubborn" Soviet counterattacks indicated that Hitler's invasion armies were finding the going rough.

The high command declared that the attack on Moscow was "in retaliation for Bolshevik air raids on open capitals of the allies, Bucharest (Rumania) and Helsinki (Finland)."

It was Moscow's first raid of the war.

Nazi pilots said that 12 big explosions shook the Kremlin district, in the center of the city, and that fires spread over a huge area southeast of the Moskva river. East of the Kremlin, 20 fires were reported.

The Germans said the entire region of the Moskva Bend, site of Communist party headquarters and power plants, was aflame.

Russian officials said at least 200 Nazi bombers struck at the capital, but that night fighters of the Red air fleet and a thundering barrage of anti-aircraft fire downed 17 planes and prevented all but a few from getting over the city.

"Several private dwellings were set afire and a small number of persons were killed or wounded," a Soviet communiqué said. "The

New Domes Tested

Soldiers Soon Will Wear Steel Helmets Like Those of Germans

Washington, July 22 (AP)—American soldiers soon will be wearing a new style, dome-shaped steel helmet that resembles in many respects those worn by German army troops.

After lengthy field tests, the War Department announced an initial order yesterday for nearly a million. They will displace the current basin-shaped model made familiar by the World War A. E. F.

The new helmet is actually a two-in-one head covering. It contains a liner made of fibre which will be used as a field hat to substitute for the present jaunty field or overseas cap.

The Government of Panama will furnish 3,000 head of beef cattle to the Canal Zone commissioners in the present fiscal year, and 6,000 head will be shipped from Cuba and Bolivia.

Army Securing Better Potential Soldiers Today

Assaying the man-power inducted into the Army under the Selective Service Act, the War Department has found that through its personnel selection system it is securing better potential soldiers than original studies had anticipated. The personnel classification system operated by the Adjutant General's Department has developed tremendously and through its scientific operations it is placing the right man in the right place in the Army.

The Army is getting "above the average" citizen for training, according to reports from Reception Centers throughout the country, and this extra complement of intelligence is serving to help Uncle Sam's new soldiers learn faster and learn more.

Unlike the famed Alpha test given to men during the World War, the present series of tests has been accepted by Army men as logical and necessary. Classification officers, however, do not blindly follow the findings of the initial tests given newly inducted men. They are guided by the tests, but through searching interviews they also weigh occupational and other factors before determining in which arm or service any selectee should be trained.

Further, the classification system is being adjusted constantly, and War Department officials believe that satisfactory progress has been made.

It has been estimated that in a typical cross section of men of military age, 7 per cent will fall into Intelligence Group I; 24 per cent into Group II; 38 per cent into Group III; 24 per cent into Group IV and the remaining 7 per cent into Group V.

But intelligence grades received by a comparable group of approximately 130,000 trainees were:

Group I 9.51 per cent
Group II 37.62 per cent
Group III 29.25 per cent
Group IV 15.60 per cent
Group V 8.02 per cent

The figures thus show that in the average civilian cross section 31 per cent would be above the normal Group III rating. Actually among the trainees examined 47.3 per cent are "above the average."

Likewise, only 23.62 per cent of these tested trainees were "below the average," whereas the civilian percentage would be 31.

Evaluating the intelligence of the trainees, however, is only one of the functions of the Army Personnel System in determining the proper job for each man.

Personnel officers realize there is no substitute for actually trying out the man on the job wherever that is possible. But when it is a matter of classifying very large numbers of men, job try-outs become impossible and tests fill a very important function.

Experience of many branches of the service has proved that economy, both in time and money spent on instruction, results from selection of trainees by means of a testing program.

Preparation of such a program was started several years before the Selective Service Act was passed and it was ready for use when trainees reported to centers. As adapted for current use, the program provides four types of tests in addition to the routine recording of the trainee's civilian occupation.

These tests include: a general classification test (results of which were cited above); a non-language examination; tests of aptitude along mechanical and clerical lines and a minimum literacy test.

The General Classification test is designed to measure the general trainability of the selectees. It requires approximately one hour, and is administered as a group test to all men passing through the Reception Centers.

The test sorts the men according to the five groupings mentioned above, and also according to a finer score called the Standard Score.

Lower Produce Rates Benefit N. Y. Shippers

Albany, July 22 — Shippers of New York state fruits and vegetables will benefit by "very substantial reductions" in freight rates from important shipping stations in New York to the leading markets in New England territory, according to an announcement by the traffic bureau of the Department of Agriculture and Markets.

Most of the reductions in railroad shipping costs became effective July 20. The lower rates were instituted voluntarily by the carriers to meet motor truck competition, and nearly all railroads serving New York State cut the rates to New England.

Reductions range from one cent a hundred pounds on apples, pears, peaches and other products shipped from Canastota to Bridgeport, Conn., to 23 cents a hundred on celery, radishes, lettuce, cucumbers and other products shipped from Elba to Portland, Me.

One of the important changes noted by the traffic bureau is a grouping system which replaces many separate rates. From the Rome to Canandaigua section of New York to many important New England points, heavier fruits and vegetables now move at a rate of 29 cents, while lighter produce goes for 31 cents. From western New York to many important New England stations, heavier products move for 30 cents and lighter products for 34 cents a hundred pounds.

The Dust Bowl Is Growing Wheat Again, But Not With a 'Win the War' Slogan

Lucille Schneider, 17, of Arvada, Colo., is one of the hundreds of feminine combine operators who have been helping with the 1941 wheat harvest. Defense has taken so many men that labor shortages are reported in many sectors.

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
Associated Press Feature Service

Denver—World War No. 2 won't produce a No. 2 Dust Bowl in the great plains region if Department of agriculture officials can prevent it.

In the first place, says C. H. Willson, regional director for the Farm Security Administration, there's no "Win the War With Wheat" slogan now.

That's because there is more wheat in the world today than at any time in history. About 5½ billion bushels are available.

The present American crop is one of the greatest on record and is estimated at 900,000,000 bushels.

Even the old dust bowl is green this year, thanks to unusually favorable weather conditions, and is contributing heavily to the nation's wheat supply.

Canada Has Abundance

During the first World War there was an acute shortage of wheat because European production was knocked out and America had to feed its allies.

In this war the world wheat acreage greatly exceeds that of the 1917 era. Canada, for instance, is estimated to have enough surplus wheat on hand, about 540,000,000 bushels, to care for its domestic needs for two years with enough left to provide its normal exports.

When the wheat situation became critical during and after World War I, wheat shot up to more than $2 a bushel and farmers began breaking virgin western grasslands.

Thousands of acres of new land were planted in wheat. This movement continued after the war.

Government officials explain that after the price of wheat dropped, many of the wheat acreages were abandoned; drought occurred and the soil, unprotected by its sod covering, began to blow.

The Resettlement Administration was created in 1935 to aid the "dust bowlers" and the Farm Security Administration in carrying on this work. The main purpose of the F. S. A. now is to prevent a recurrence of dust bowl conditions.

Other Factors

Besides the record carry-over of world wheat supplies, Willson says other reasons any wheat production shouldn't be increased unnecessarily include these:

1. The farm program, with its ever-normal granary and acreage allotment provisions, places obstacles in the path of unnecessary wheat expansion.

2. There is no new land available. Much of the land put into wheat during World War I has been returned to livestock range, covered with grass and governed by grazing associations to assure that it won't be returned to "cash crop" production.

3. The government is making it attractive for farmers to produce meat, dairy products, eggs, vegetables, and like products of which there is more immediate need. A price floor has been placed under these products at principal markets.

Luella Gear at Elwyn Playhouse

Will Star in 'The Goldfish Bowl' Starting Thursday

Luella Gear, one of the leading comedienne on the contemporary American stage, has been secured to star in "The Goldfish Bowl," the new play about a White House family by Vincent McConnell, which makes its premiere Thursday night, July 24, at Robert Elwyn's Woodstock Playhouse and will be shown through Sunday night. Mr. Elwyn feels that he is particularly fortunate in obtaining the services of the famous Miss Gear in the role of the "First Lady," inasmuch as the subject matter of the play has already been widely discussed in New York's theatrical sector and a number of theatrical and motion picture executives will come to Woodstock to witness the production.

Miss Gear's most recent Broadway successes include "Crazy With the Heat," "Streets of Paris" and "Life Begins at 8:40."

"The Goldfish Bowl" will provide Director Elwyn with his largest cast of the season with 20 speaking parts in all. Phyllis Elmerman, who has appeared in this season's first four Playhouse offerings, will have the role next in importance to Miss Gear.

Elwyn told The Freeman this afternoon that Sally Rand's appearances in "Rain" and "The Little Foxes" attracted more than capacity audiences in each of her eight performances, the finest response he has won in his eight seasons of stock at Woodstock.

Pertinent Facts On Conscription

All information concerning Selective Service registrants, with the exception of certain confidential records, is a matter of public record and must be made available to any person upon request during the business hours of local boards in New York state, provided such inquiries do not interfere with the dispatch of business.

Brigadier General Ames T. Brown, New York State Director of Selective Service, declared today. However, neither the registrant nor the public is permitted to search or handle records and the motives of any person inquiring about more than one registrant may be questioned.

Information considered as confidential and not to be disclosed without consent of the registrant includes all records of physical condition of a registrant, all answers on the questionnaire under the subject of dependency, except the names and addresses of claimed dependents, the answers to questions on previous military service, income and the registrant's record record, General Brown said.

Pointing out that Selective Service Form 100, the Classification Record of Registrants, contains practically all pertinent information of a non-confidential nature, the director emphasized that this form is subject to examination by the public during local board business hours.

This record includes the name of the registrant, his order number, his serial number, his age and his race.

If he volunteered, the date of his volunteering is shown. If his record is transferred to another board for the purpose of classification, physical examination or induction, the date of such transfer and the date of the return of the registrant's record from the transfer board are indicated.

Form 100, the director said, also shows the date the questionnaire was mailed, the date of its return, if the time for its return is extended, or the date of a claim made for deferment by a person other than the registrant.

The date of notice to appear for physical examination, the date the registrant appeared, and the date the classification notice was mailed to the registrant are also indicated. It further shows whether the registrant was placed in Class I-A, I-B, I-C, I-D, or I-E, or Class II-A or II-B, or Class III, or Class IV-A, B, C, D, E, or F.

If the registrant makes a request to appear before the local board, that date is recorded as is the date fixed for his appearance and a notation as to whether he did appear.

This Classification Record (Form 100) also shows the date of an appeal to the Board of Appeal, the date when the registrant's record is sent to the Appeal Board, the date of the decision of the Appeal Board, and whether or not the classification was continued.

It further records the date of the order when the registrant should report for induction, if he is so ordered, and the time he is to report for transportation to the induction station giving the date and the hour, and then shows the

Cassidy Tells How Nazis Failed to Burn Out Moscow

Red Home Guards Toss Fire Bombs From Building Roofs

Russian Populace Takes Air Raid In Stride as Defense Workers Stick Steadfastly to Posts

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Moscow, July 22 (AP)—The German air force tried last night to burn out Moscow as it burned out parts of London, but it failed.

From sunset to dawn I watched a squad of Russian home guards toss incendiary bombs off the roofs and put out fires.

The raid over, life surged back through the city in the early morning as though it were noon, when thousands take their mid-day stroll.

The sirens whined just as the setting sun cast a glow in the sky. Then an ominous voice came over the loudspeakers warning everyone to go to their shelters.

I went to the ground floor apartment of my building which is headquarters of the house committee.

Boy Tosses Bomb

An 18-year-old boy who had been watching the roof, soon came into the room with his bare head soaking wet, and his red shirt open at the throat, rubbing his fireproof gloves.

He said that an incendiary bomb had landed on the roof, but that he threw it into the courtyard. We were skeptical of his story at first, but found evidence in the burned out metal tube about a foot long.

Another watcher replaced him on the roof.

Small bombs were dropped all along the street, which is in a quiet residential quarter far from central and industrial quarters. But only one house was burned. The occupants dragged out their belongings into the courtyard.

As the raid continued through the night, watchers on the roofs replaced one another in relays. The constantly changing group of nine to 21 persons kept filing in and out of the first floor apartment. The automatic telephone continued to function throughout the raid, and the workers kept in constant touch with other nearby headquarters.

At the start of the raid even the luminous dial on my wrist watch caused a flutter among the nervous watchers until it was blacked out under my sleeve. But by the end of the alarm a light was turned on in the windowless room, and everyone was excitedly telling of his experiences.

The drone of planes faded gradually as dawn spread in the sky.

Daylight showed that what had seemed in darkness to have been a withering attack, had been, in fact, a comparatively harmless raid.

Pigeons Blitz Horses

Pigeons of Glasgow, Scotland, have found a new form of blitz. They gather in groups and send one to fly at the head of a horse eating from a feed bag. When the animal throws up its head grain falls to the pavement, and the birds feast.

GERMAN TANKS ASSEMBLE FOR ATTACK

German sources describe these as Nazi tanks assembling for "an attack on burning Slutsk." Maps of Russia indicate that the town of "Slutsk" may be Slutsk, which lies 50 miles south of Minsk, in the Russo-German fighting zone. (Picture by radio from Berlin to New York.)

bility and make an orderly withdrawal in the face of heavy German offensives, we shall find the defenders facing west when the Nazis have consolidated their position in Moscow.

There would seem to be no reason why the Bolsheviks shouldn't then continue the war indefinitely, even into a term of years. Their man power is inexhaustible and their resources vast.

We have seen the really great fighting qualities displayed by the Soviet soldiers, and we mustn't overlook that the Russian is traditionally good on the defense. He was good against Napoleon, against the British in the Crimea, and in the World War within the limits of his possibilities.

Police Trace Old Sedan as Clue in Cochran Slaying

Father's Description Aids Officials; Girl's Red Diary Is Checked for Names

Lynn, Mass., July 22 (AP)—Search for the large, old square-backed sedan in which 19-year-old Frances Cochran rode away Thursday night to her death was speeded today with a police disclosure that a blacked-out car of the same description had reappeared at her home at 3 a. m. next morning—only to be driven away after her father accosted the driver.

Police Chief Edward D. Callahan, in revealing today the additional importance attached to the automobile as a clue to the identity of the slayer, commented that the body of Miss Cochran might have been in the car when it halted in front of the house in which her worried parents waited for word of their daughter.

At Mrs. Cochran's instigation, Chief Callahan said, the girl's father, Harold Cochran, approached the darkened sedan and asked the driver:

"Is Frances There?" Cochran told police that the driver replied, "Frances is in back."

The voice of a second man, shadowed by the dark interior of the rear section of the car, then said, "No, Frances is in front."

Then, still unlighted, the automobile was suddenly driven away.

Investigators expressed the opinion that the car might have been of a model produced between 1928 and 1934. From the father's incomplete description, it resembled that of the automobile Miss Cochran was seen entering near her home, late Thursday afternoon.

Meanwhile, detectives today went painstakingly through a red diary, held by a metal clasp, in which the young girl had recorded her life from day to day, the theatres and parties she had visited and—most important from the police standpoint—the names of her male acquaintances.

Detectives interviewed young men listed in the book—but indicated that they were not optimistic that the information obtained would provide a solution to the rape-slaying.

While investigation proceeded in the death of Miss Cochran—second Massachusetts victim within two days of a sex-mad slayer—a hundred neighbors designated a committee to help Mayor Albert Cole in the roundup of known sex-offenders.

These make good gifts for Holidays.

It's EASY to learn this!

Can you Goose-Step?

With a little PRACTICE nearly anyone can go through all the motions of being the slave of a "Super State."

Just relax. Just say: "Oh, why should I worry about how the country is run or who runs it?" Just do as you're told. Don't bother about your freedom or your rights.

You'll be goose-stepping in no time!

into wooden FOLLOWERS.

"We'll try governing ourselves," said these Americans. "Of course, we will have to know all the time what's going on and have to do some THINKING for ourselves. But, if the price of FREEDOM is so reasonable, we will have a try at it!"

"But wait a minute. This wandering around LISTENING to this or that opinion wastes a lot of time. How about offering some enterprising fellow a few cents to go everywhere, report everything EVERY DAY?" So these free Americans reasoned.

Right! NEWSPAPERS were the answer! Not the GOVERNMENT's newspapers, though—the PEOPLE'S newspapers. Never mind if the EDITOR is a "fearless fire eater."

Never mind how many OPINIONS he has, so long as he reports the FACTS—and we, the people, are free to make up our own minds from the NEWS.

Now if we stopped HERE we still wouldn't have FREEDOM. A man who knows all about how to govern himself but doesn't know how and where to turn his money into good VALUE is only HALF free.

That's an EASY one to solve. We let all the makers and sellers of goods report what THEY have to offer—right in the same newspaper. Call it ADVERTISING. To the free citizen it is a daily catalogue of the best bargains, the NEWS of new and useful things, the daily guide to the most for his money.

The world calls us "lucky," in America. Maybe we are. But there's quite a little HORSE SENSE in the system. It lets an AMERICAN sit in his easy chair with his shoes off while public servants and storekeepers seek him out to please him.

And even if we sometimes choose WRONG, we Americans still prefer to do without the kind of "leaders" who could teach us to goose-step past a balcony.

Today 320 newspaper publishers are telling this story in over 10 million homes.

NON-VOTING VOTERS

The News-Leader of Staunton, Va., calls local citizens to task for their civic apathy. Statistics show that 15.85 per cent of all citizens of Staunton and Augusta County control public affairs for the remaining 84.15 per cent. Even when the inhabitants too young to vote are taken out, the number of voters is less than one-fourth the number who ought to vote.

"Isn't it time for our citizens to shake off such distressing lethargy?" the editor asks. "If democracy means anything, it should count most during these hectic, distressing times. No citizen has any right to enjoy the privileges of citizenship without assuming ever present responsibilities. The conditions constitute a positive challenge to every male and female in city and country twenty-one years of age and over."

Figures will vary, but similar "distressing lethargy" exists all over the country. There may be some small communities in which every eligible voter exercises his franchise on election day, but they are not numerous, and the amount of indifference seems to rise with the population.

The total popular vote has been growing in recent national campaigns, although it is still well below the total eligible vote. But even in such elections, voters often ignore local issues essential to good government and give their temporary attention only to national candidates. It is indeed a peril to democracy.

PLANNING FOR PLENTY

Nearly everybody seems to be worrying about the collapse when the war boom shall be over and we get back to production for use instead of destruction. But isn't this assuming a good deal? How does anybody know there will be a slump?

The answer that there was a slump after the last war isn't altogether convincing. Conditions this time may be very different, so that nobody but an inspired prophet can clearly foresee them now.

True, we'll have an enormously larger manufacturing capacity at the end of the war, with all these new mills, factories and so on. And they couldn't close down and their workmen be left in idleness without a general business slump. But who knows that most of that manufacturing capacity can't be diverted to civilian production without too much loss of time?

The country and the world may be full of new demands for goods and articles of a thousand kinds, old and new. And if the American people have not lost their old resourcefulness in the realm of invention and manufacture, they may, after a short pause to re-adapt industry and trade, go all out to give themselves and the world an infinity of useful goods instead of the war stuff to which they have been tied.

The sensible thing might be to plan for plenty instead of scarcity.

LATIN-AMERICAN MACHINERY

Importing machine tools from Argentina into the United States certainly seems like carrying coals to Newcastle. The neighbors "down below" always have been short of such commodities and have usually bought them from us. Now there are firms in the United States, and in our most industrialized areas, importing drill presses, shapers, punch presses, die filing machines and hand screw machines from Argentina and Brazil. Orders to be filled later from the same sources include large turret lathes, planers, heavy duty drill presses and milling machines. They are built especially to conform with American machine practices and requirements.

The machine tool builders down there are said to have surplus production because of the closing of European markets, and are naturally glad to find a market in this country. They probably appreciate, too, the fact that they are thus helping in the big job of defense production for our free hemisphere and its foreign friends. And there is probably no need to fear their competition now or for a long time to come. As our southern neighbors prosper and expand their infant industries they themselves will become better markets for our own goods.

PARACHUTE RATIONS

There have been wonder and admiration at the courage of the Nazi troops serving as parachutists or panzer troops or in other capacities calling for special energy and daring. But there seems to be nothing especially remarkable about it except the training and equipment. The spirit is largely a new form of "dutch courage."

It appears most clearly in the parachutists. They cannot tell what they're getting into, so they must be well equipped and prepared. A war correspondent says the 'chutist carries a fat sausage about eight inches long, to serve as food until he finds another supply. Also a half-pint of brandy to use at his discretion. Then a tube of tablets that look like aspirin but are really morphinized mint and very powerful. The morphine will kill the pangs of hunger and keep the parachutist going when otherwise he would be scared to death or utterly exhausted.

With such equipment, plus light machine guns and metal shields for protection until they can dig in, apparently men trained in this mode of invasion should accomplish more than they have actually done so far.

HE LIKES IT

If the military life of our men in training isn't all "beer and skittles" neither is it all hardship. Here is an interesting report given by a young sergeant, normally a salesman, at home on a week's leave.

"Army life is a decided change from civilian life," he says, "but there is no reason why a man shouldn't like it. The food is excellent. There are all types of recreation available. The service clubs offer everything from billiards to music boxes. Dances are held every week or two. Work is equally divided and no favoritism shown unless a man complains—then he is apt to get more than his share. I like the life and I believe most of the boys like it, although perhaps they will not all admit it.

"I notice," he adds, "that all the men have added to their self-assurance. The army is a maker of men. If you're a man when you join up, you'll be a better one when you come out."

That's the way it should be in a democracy.

NERVOUSNESS AND BLOOD PRESSURE

We know that when we get excited the heart beats faster, may pound itself against the chest wall and we may become almost breathless. Similarly, it has been found that the blood pressure rises during excitement or fear and may remain high for some time after the cause of our excitement or fear has disappeared.

However, what many of us do not know is that it may not take excitement or fear to send up our blood pressure. Just simple nervousness or even slight emotional disturbances can send up our blood pressure many points, as can also that bad habit of keeping ourselves tense most of the time.

Can this keeping of the mind and body tense, thus sending up the blood pressure, cause damage to the bloodvessels which may result in high blood pressure with the dangers of heart stroke or head stroke (apoplexy)?

Dr. Edgar A. Hines, Mayo Clinic, tells of his study of 1,522 patients in an attempt to determine whether the increase in blood pressure in a normal individual during nervous stress would show that this means that the individual will develop permanent high blood pressure sooner than one who is not nervous or tensed at time of examination.

Patients were put into two groups, those that returned to clinic for reexamination after ten years, and those after twenty years. For both groups the first reading or examination showed blood pressure to be somewhat higher but within normal limits, and others all within normal limits.

What did this second examination after ten and twenty years show? It was found that in those who were nervous or tense whose blood pressure nevertheless was normal at first reading had a higher blood pressure than normal for their age, ten and twenty years after.

"However, patients whose blood pressure is not raised as a result of nervous stress are unlikely to develop high blood pressure later."

The lesson for us all is plain. None of us can be blocks of stone or wood, without any feeling whatever. About us at home, at work, everywhere, are circumstances that cause us to tense our nerves and muscles. But insofar as we can, we must try to accept as calmly as possible the varying circumstances of life if we are to keep our blood pressure within normal limits.

Washington—It was generally overlooked, but behind the President's recommendation to Congress for legislation to permit the President to establish regional or general daylight saving for all or any part of the year is a plan to circumvent one of the major political explosions of the whole of national defense legislation.

In World War I Congress and the nation paused in its entire defense effort to wage one of its bitterest battles over whether we should or shouldn't have universal daylight saving.

Every time congressmen have made faces at the clock in the present defense effort, there have been little whirlwinds of criticism and debate all over the land.

Because the controversy over daylight saving is a fight between farm communities and the large urban and industrial centers. Even some of the most vigorous advocates of universal daylight saving will admit that the farmer has a justifiable gripe. And on the other hand, some of the outstanding opponents confess that daylight saving in some areas probably is a good thing.

It undoubtedly does save electricity. According to the Federal Power Commission, national daylight saving would conserve more than 736,000,000 kilowatt-hours a year. It gives the factory workers on one or two shifts more working daylight. For many workers even those working overtime, it provides leisure daylight hours.

These arguments are pretty well established.

Farm Routine Rigid

But what it does to the farmer is something else again. In farm communities, where the working day is from dawn to dark and there is very little waking time between its saving in electricity (or oil for the lamps) is negligible. On the other hand, if the farmer tries to adjust himself to it, he finds that his stock won't go along with him. Chickens, cows, turkeys and pigs, eat and sleep by the sun—and the farmer regulates his hours accordingly. Also, dew doesn't come or disappear by the clock.

Talkative Wives of Naval Officers Cause Concern to Navy Department by Revealing Plans, Etc.

(By DAVID LAWRENCE)

(Copyright, 1941)
Washington, July 22.—The navy department is considerably upset about the talkativeness of the wives of naval officers. Some of them inadvertently have been furnishing information about the movements of their husbands. As a matter of fact, some of the notices in the society columns telling of future plans of the naval officers have been all too revealing.

Senator Wheeler of Montana really wasn't the first to tip off the movement of naval forces to Iceland. Careful examination of the society columns of newspapers in the vicinity of various naval stations disclosed the same information. It is certainly not a new thing for naval facts to be obtained that way. Indeed the British government has had to take drastic steps to prevent leaks on naval movements which come out of members of the families of the naval personnel.

Discussion among the navy department officials here led to the belief that this kind of information could be suppressed by asking the newspapers to refrain from printing it but the job of keeping such news out of print is much easier accomplished by stopping it at the source. For it could hardly be known in advance through just what channel the information about naval movements might leak. One marine is reported to have written to his newspaper to transfer his subscription to Iceland. Another instance reported is that of a naval officer's wife who gave the society columns the information that she was moving away because her husband had been ordered to Iceland.

The technique of foreign intelligence systems is well worked out so as to keep in contact with the families of naval people. The navy department here is just beginning to take cognizance of that difficulty and orders have been issued to censor the mail emanating from naval ships to the families of the naval personnel. This had to be done because officers in their letters told of purchases of certain articles of clothing needed in certain localities.

It will be recalled that Prime Minister Churchill in a public utterance deplored the fact that information about the American occupation of Iceland had leaked out before the transfer could be effected. Since that time the administration has been placing the blame on Senator Wheeler of Montana, Democrat, and the other day in a press conference, President Roosevelt permitted the correspondents to quote him as not desiring "to pull another Wheeler," which was intended to convey the idea that he did not want to publish certain information prematurely.

It turns out, however, that an injustice has been done to the Montana senator for he was not the first to mention the naval movement to Iceland. In fact the President's message announcing the first arrivals of American forces in Iceland was made public before the whole troop movement was completed and while some of the American forces are believed to have been en route.

Senator Wheeler's comment about Iceland was made on July 3rd last and the navy department is said to have been exercised before that day by the publication of notices in the society columns of newspapers in Virginia telling of prospective movement of certain American naval officers to Iceland. It is extremely doubtful, therefore, that the first information about the Iceland move came to the Axis powers through the public comment of the Montana senator. This correspondent has not agreed with the views of Senator Wheeler on foreign policy but believes the Montana senator is entitled to an apology by the administration if the navy department did in fact know about the publication of naval officers' movements to Iceland before the Montana senator gave his interview.

It is regrettable that such personal accusations are being bandied about so that, as in the case of Atlanta, the use of an auditorium for speaking is denied the Montana senator because allegedly he has made public naval secrets.

The best way to stop the leakage of military or naval information is for the army and navy to begin a campaign inside its ranks calling for discretion and silence. England has had to carry on such a campaign by public posters and by rigid regulation not only of soldiers but of the comments of reporters and sailors when off duty. Something of the same sort will have to be inaugurated in America.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Home relief was not such a problem in 1919 as it is today as is shown in the reports made at the annual meeting of the Charity Board in December of that year, when the board adopted a budget calling for an appropriation of $36,585 for relief purposes during 1920.

Wesley Waterbury was president of the board that year and the other members were William C. Coutant, Carl G. Fieber, Nicholas Stout, Conrad R. Davis, P. H. Osterhout and Fred C. Lang.

Thomas H. Edmonston was serving as superintendent of the board. His annual report showed that it had cost $153 to support each inmate in the City Home during 1919. The board that year cared for 110 families in Kingston.

During the years that Mr. Edmonston served as superintendent of the City Home it was customary for able-bodied men who sought relief to do some work such as cutting wood and helping in the crops on the City Home farm. They were paid off in being furnished with food.

Each of the commissioners of the board were allotted a certain number of wards in the city and the needy in these wards who sought relief applied directly to the commissioner in their ward.

The other day I wrote the story of the sale of the Mary Powell, the famous old Queen of the Hudson, and I recall that in December, 1919, the Central Hudson Steamboat Company, sold the steamboat William F. Romer and the Milton Martin to Morris Levinson of Newburgh. The price paid was not made public.

The Martin, which had been berthed in the Rondout creek for two years prior to the sale, was a famous boat during the days of the Civil War when she was used as General Grant's dispatch boat on the Chesapeake. She was built in 1863, two years after the old Queen was placed in service.

The steamer Romer had also been out of commission for some time at the time she was sold to Levinson, and had been berthed at Newburgh.

Both vessels will be easily recalled by older readers as they made regular trips for the Central Hudson Line for many years. They carried both freight and passengers, and berthed at the old Central Hudson dock in the Rondout creek.

For many years the Central Hudson Line used the old warehouse on Ferry street, and also maintained an office here.

Dairymen May Need

Substitute Feeds

Ithaca, N. Y., July 22.—The production of dairy herd in counties that lack hay, silage, and pasture will be far below normal this summer and the ensuing year, unless substitute feeds are bought and fed to producing cows, says Prof. W. T. Crandall of the New York state college of agriculture.

The problem cannot be handled in the most economical way by merely feeding more grain, he adds. Cows require much dry matter daily and nutrients can usually be bought at less cost in hay than in grain mixtures.

If good hay cannot be bought, and home-grown roughages are scarce, Professor Crandall says any kind of dry roughage on hand or purchasable can be fed to some advantage if molasses mixed half and half with water is sprinkled on it.

"Citrus pulp may be fed to the higher producing cows as a roughage substitute. It is not as palatable as beet pulp, but cows become accustomed to it. Heavy grain feeding may be used as a last resort."

Professor Crandall says one of the first steps to take in meeting a serious feed shortage is to thoroughly appraise every animal in the herd. Animals that show little possibility for the future should be disposed of.

"That Was Alderbury,"

by R. L. Duffus

It's as plain as the nose on your face that R. L. Duffus was either "born and raised" in Vermont, or was taken to the state of short summers when a baby. Otherwise he could not have written "That Was Alderbury," and this summer would have asked a rewarding book. Book it must be called, since it is neither a novel nor nostalgic reminiscence, and yet a little of both.

Is Alderbury as seen through, approximately, a school year, and as seen by four delightful boys. The time is the late 'nineties, and the village is one of those charming places now being bought out by the summer people who knock the baffles out of the old fireplaces, restore the picket fences and keep the grass cut to a half inch length. But at the time of which Mr. Duffus writes Alderbury could only be reached on a branch line after a couple of changes and a considerable lapse of time. The engine that served the line was a blacked, wood-burning relic, and the two coaches on the one train had only bad brakes. Not that they needed more.

One day Dave Filmer swung off the train, and handed down the valise of a girl named Sylvia Hale. She was the new schoolteacher, and she dimmed the reception intended for the new minister and his wife. This was because Sylvia was too lovely to be unnoticed by the men, and Mrs. Thorne was a little older than her ministerial husband and rather plain. The husband was not plain, and he, like most of the other men on the platform, found his glance resting gently on Sylvia.

From then on, Mr. Duffus follows the course of the attachment between the young minister and the young schoolteacher, largely through the eyes of the four boys, and particularly those of Phil Burns. The village, agnostic, the village drunk, George Grimshy, the religious snoop, Alfred Grimshy, his sadly disappointed brother, the village Grand Old Man who was too deaf to hear the angel of death and too cantankerous to heed him—these and a score more wandered through Mr. Duffus' book. More important, perhaps, is the fact that the reader is himself caught up in the procession.

According to the latest statistics of the Bureau of the Census, the average family in the United States has property assessed at $4080; contributes $487 to Federal, State, and local government taxes, and is responsible for $1,824 of the total public debt.

Kingston's Drive To Get Aluminum Gets Under Way

Kingston's drive to collect scrap aluminum in the interest of national defense which opened Monday gained increased momentum today as the house to house canvass gained headway in the various wards throughout the city.

Already some of the aluminum collected in the drive has been dumped in the central receiving station on the vacant lot on Broadway, at West O'Reilly street. The plan for the drive in the city calls for collections to be made in each ward and later the aluminum collected is to be trucked to this central location.

The vacant lot has been fenced off with the snow fencing used by the county highway department in winter along the highways. To designate the site a large sign has also been erected.

Those in charge of the drive expect that a considerable amount of old aluminum will be collected this week while the drive is in progress.

Jones Offers to Purchase Materials From Russians

Manganese and Chromium Are Chief Items U. S. Could Use in Move to Aid Soviet

Washington, July 22 (P)—Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator said today he had offered to buy any strategic materials which Russia might want to sell to the United States to help pay for purchases of war supplies.

Jones told a press conference that he made the offer to Constantine Oumansky, Russian ambassador, about a week ago, but did not know when a deal was likely.

The only difficulty, he explained, was the problem of getting the materials—particularly manganese and chromium—from western Russia to the far east port of Vladivostok and then getting ships to carry the materials to the United States.

Jones said no amount was mentioned, but added that it was fair to assume that the United States would buy "all the strategic materials Russia wants to sell and is able to deliver."

The purchases, he added, would not necessarily be balanced by an equivalent amount of war materials purchases here.

"The Russians," Jones said, "have a good supply of cash—gold. They haven't asked for a loan."

Seaman Arrested For Bad Conduct

Crew Member on Tanker Meets Trouble in City

John W. Berg, 61, a seaman on an oil tanker, who gave his home address as Port Arthur, Texas, was arrested on Wall street on Monday afternoon on charges of public intoxication and disorderly conduct. He was fined $10 on the public intoxication charge and $15 on the charge of disorderly conduct when arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court this morning.

Berg frightened women sitting in parked cars on Wall street near the court house by his actions Monday afternoon, and his actions led to his being placed under arrest charged with indecent exposure.

This morning Berg, who said he was married and had a family, claimed that he was so intoxicated he had no recollection of frightening women on Wall street.

He said that he had left the tanker yesterday to do some shopping. While he was lodged in the county jail awaiting trial the tanker left. He expected to meet the vessel in New York, he said, after paying his fine.

Julius Jordan, who said he had no home, was picked up on a charge of disorderly conduct in having no visible means of support. He was given an opportunity of leaving the city.

'V' Drive Called 'Baby Business'

London, July 22 (P)—Some champions of the "V" for victory campaign began to suspect today that it was petering out and one newspaper columnist referred to it as "baby business."

Hannen Swaffer, writing in the Daily Herald, said "V also stands for vacillation."

"Aboard the V sign may have effects on public morale," he said. "It is ridiculous, though, to assume that it will scare the enemy or reduce to impotence his power in men and machines."

"At home the V sign is just a baby business... what we really want is a minister of production, a plan run by a mind. The rest is just the bunk."

Japanese Move Reported

Meanwhile, tension arose from a flurry of rumors that a Japanese military move was imminent.

The London radio said all reports indicated that "big developments" were ready to erupt and that "a large-scale mobilization is proceeding throughout Japan.... reservists are called to the colors.... lorries and horses are requisitioned."

A British spokesman said frankly that continued reports of probable Japanese demands on French Indo-China were "disturbing, particularly after cabinet changes" in Tokyo.

"It is worth noting," he added, "that Yosuke Matsuoka, who assured the British ambassador last month that reports of Japanese territorial demands on Indo-China were false, no longer is a member of the Government."

Matsuoka, who personally negotiated a Japanese-Russian neutrality pact, was dropped from his post of foreign minister in a cabinet shake-up last week.

On the Russo-German war front, Moscow reports that Russia's Red armies were still holding doggedly in the main theaters of the 31-day-old struggle.

In all these sectors, the Russians have been fighting bitterly and, apparently, without losing noticeable ground for four days.

The Soviet communiqué also reported that a Russian tank unit had crashed through the Nazi forward wall in an undisclosed sector and attacked German communications and supply lines.

London military quarters said that the Russians were successfully holding up the Germans in the Pskov sector, where the Nazis are driving toward Leningrad, but that the Germans appeared to be making progress on both sides of Smolensk, key city 230 miles west of Moscow, on the central front.

Dispatches from Berlin said the Germans destroyed 391 Soviet tanks Sunday, most of them in a Dniester river sector where 10,000 Russian prisoners were reported taken.

DNB, the official German news agency, admitted the Russians were carrying out Premier Joseph V. Stalin's order for a "scorched earth" campaign, at least in some sectors.

DNB said Reich troops, marching with heavy packs, tramped through the choking ash dust of burned forests in pursuit of Russians in the Salla area, in the north.

On the diplomatic front, the German government demanded that the Bolivian charge d'affaires in Berlin leave Germany within three days, in reprisal for the expulsion of German Minister Ernst Wendler from Bolivia.

The Bolivian government requested Wendler's departure Saturday in a move to quash asserted plans for a Nazi coup.

In Washington, Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles said yesterday the United States had promised Bolivia full support if an international incident developed over the case.

Reports from both Germans and Russians on the fighting in Russia were meagre as the battle entered its second month. A Soviet communiqué said Nevel, Smolensk, Novograd-Volynski and Polotsk were battle areas while German air attacks on Leningrad were beaten off.

The Germans said their troops were surrounding and destroying important parts of the Red army but gave few other details.

Among their prisoners, the Germans said, was First Lieutenant Jacob Stalin, 33-year-old son of Premier Joseph Stalin by his first wife. He was reported captured July 16 near Ljsovo with other Russian officers and soldiers by a German panzer division.

In Japan there was widespread publication of reports attributed to Hongkong sources of a forthcoming attack on French Indo-China.

Domei, Japanese news agency, charged that Chinese troops, Free French forces and British troops in Malaya were preparing to invade Indo-China.

Neutral military sources in Shanghai, however, hinted these reports might be a smokescreen covering possible Japanese designs. Shanghai reports also asserted the Japanese had greatly restricted travel in North China and Manchoukuo.

Date Is Postponed

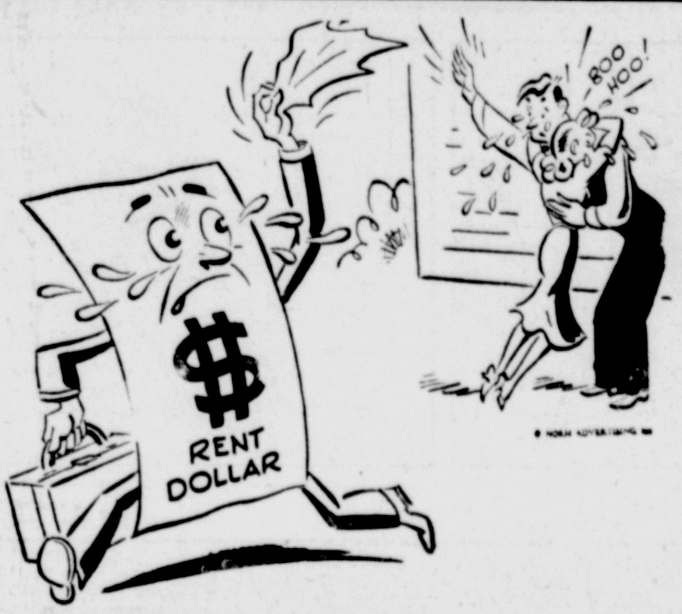

Washington, July 22 (P)—The Federal Communications Commission today postponed to September 16 the effective date of its new regulations for chain broadcasting. The regulations had been scheduled to go into effect July 30. The postponement was requested by the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting system. They asked the delay, Chairman James Lawrence Fly of the F. C. C. said, in order to permit more time for the discussions that have been going on recently between the commission and representatives of the networks.

Maveric Players To Give High Tor As Net on List

About 50 miles south of Kingston there is a broad flat rock, part of the Raapos, a wilderness of stone and trees which is the background of many a folk tale and legend. Inspired by the stories which have come down through the ages, Maxwell Anderson wrote "High Tor," a comedy drama to be seen at the Maverick Theatre, Woodstock, July 25, 26, 27. Chosen by Gil Clevley because of its beauty of language and superb dramatic construction which combines an eerie poetic quality with earthy boisterous humor, "High Tor," presents Margaret Phillips in the tragic Manuella of "Girls in Uniform" and Griff Evans in important roles.

Griff is the boy who driving ambition and love of the theatre spurred him to walk 1,200 miles from his Wisconsin home to study with C. C. Connelly in New York. His core servant in "Love for Love" is followed by the dramatic part of Sigurd Jungquist, the Swedish wisest, in "The Night of January 16th." Don Haggerty will play the roistering, blustering old dog, DeWitt, to his list of characterizations, and Michael Barrett will handle two distinct different roles. As Captain Ashgostly leader of a spirit crew, all as the very material state triper he will have a good opportunity to once more prove his versatility.

Joe Graham and Jack Woods as the two scheming money grabbers have some of the funniest lines and situations in the play. Jack, who is stage manager at the Maverick will make his first appearance of the season in "High Tor," but Joe will be remembered for his convincing district attorney in "The Night of January 16th," and his extremely amusing playing of a slightly bumpy chuyler Van yke in "Dulcy." Marion Thomson will have the part of Judith who shares the love of Van with n. e. theal rival. Others appear in the Maxwell Anderson drama: Paul Welch, as an old India Wade Dent, as a rural judge, and Bob Greene, Gordon Benwitz, as Marc Bucci as a trio of bank-robbing gangsters who find that twentieth century bullets make no impression on seventeenth century wraiths.

The Hogs Take on Hourglass Figures In Science's Search for Better Pork

(Second of five articles)

By JOHN GROVER

(F) Feature Service Writer

Beltsville, Md.—The hog breeding lot at the U. S. experimental farm is a "beauty parlor" where they're giving hourglass figures and new complexions to a bunch of pigs.

Serious scientists are concerned about the shape of a hog's hind leg and worry about the rosy blush on his bristled skin. It isn't silly—it may mean millions to farmers in the U. S. midlands, where community economy is geared to hog profits.

The federal research men want a better meat hog, one that thrives under U. S. conditions, utilizes his heavily into lard market. U. S. breeders had developed the best lard-type hogs in the world—waddling blimps upholstered in fat. The hog experts feared a day when U. S. hog raisers would be penalized because the lard-type hog doesn't produce the lean meat

So they set about developing a meat-type breed, as insurance against the day when lard-type hogs might be uneconomic and consequently unprofitable.

Subject To Sunburn
Denmark had developed such a breed, called the Landrace hog. These yielded a higher percentage of hams, bacon and loin, less sheer fat. Landrace bacon is as high as 40 per cent lean meat, compared to lows of 12 per cent in lard-type carcasses.

Why didn't they simply import Landrace hogs, and gradually replace the lard-type porkers? It isn't that simple.

The Landrace is a pinky-white hog. His complexion is all right in cool Denmark, but he sunburns something scandalous in the Midwest. A sunburned hog mopes and loses weight, runs up feeding costs. The Landrace legs were too weak for big U. S. farms where a hog must rustle his groceries.

Hogs had never had to develop long-range underpinning on tiny Danish farms.

So the U. S. experimental farm tackled the problem of re-assembling divergent breeds into a composite hog to fit American requirements.

The scientists crossed the Landrace with black Poland Chinas and red Duroc Jerseys. They crossed the hybrid back to Landrace stock. They wanted to "fix" that ideal Landrace architecture, the hourglass figure that denotes super-hams, better bacon and more loin.

Vacation Vox Pop

A trip is often taken to visit relatives who live at such a distance that vacation is the only time during the whole year that one may be able to see them. Such a vacation was taken this year by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kennedy and their children, Robert and the Misses Helen and Doris Kennedy, of 203 Fair street. The interview with Helen was augmented by the other members of the family.

The family left by car, June 29, and drove by way of Cairo up across the top of the Finger Lakes, through the central part of New York state to Buffalo. This was considered the most beautiful part of the whole drive for the mountain scenery and the lakes. Near Buffalo they saw the new Curtiss-Wright airplane factory.

Having stayed in Buffalo one night, the travelers left Monday for Cleveland, O. In passing through Pennsylvania, they were impressed by the number of cherry orchards. Upon entering Ohio they found most of the land flat and uninteresting after traveling over the mountain routes.

While visiting in Cleveland, they took advantage of the metropolitan areas, just outside of the city, which are really parks with picnic grounds and swimming facilities. One might also swim in Lake Erie at Huntington Beach. From the tower of the Cleveland Terminal railroad building, they looked out across the whole city and Lake Erie. The downtown shopping area would be of special interest to the women and of course there is the stadium where the American League Cleveland Indians' baseball games are played.

On the following Sunday, the family left for Detroit, Mich., a city that proved to be more interesting. Swimming and speed boating may be enjoyed at Lake St. Clair. There are also the shopping districts and theatres to attend. Our visitors were fortunate to be at Detroit, July 8, when they saw the All-Star baseball game at Briggs Stadium.

One day was spent at Belle Isle out in the Detroit river. There is canoeing, swimming, bicycling, horseback riding and a zoo. The Kennedy family were 18 in the Kennedy's party and the menu listed all the essentials of a picnic, baked macaroni, scalloped potatoes, hamburgers and rolls, etc.

Detroit is essentially a manufacturing city with the Ford plant located there. An inspection tour of the plant was made and they saw a Ford car completely assembled in 55 minutes. The place was extremely noisy with all of the machinery but it was nevertheless a worthwhile experience.

Two other buildings connected with the motor industry are the Fisher Building and the General Motors Building. From the 28th story of the Fisher Building the tourists saw Detroit at night. Saks Fifth Avenue store may be found in this building as well as business offices. There is an underground passageway to the General Motors building. This building covers an entire block and is filled with stores, offices and theatres. The travelers saw only the lobby since they made their visit at night.

Around the lobby are numerous mosaics depicting various emblems and scenes including the national eagle emblem. The mosaic work is composed of tiny pieces of colored stone and from a distance appear to be solid pictures. They also visited the studio of Station WJR.

Lecture Is Given
A lecture was given last evening at the St. George's Choir School, DeWitt Lake, by Leopold Van Vandt, piano pupil of the late Ignace Paderewski and of Percy Grainger. He illustrated his talk with pieces by the famous composers. He also told of the beginning of the opera as we know it in the court of Marie Antoinette. His program was as follows:
1st movement of Gregg's Piano Concerto in A Minor
Ballet Music from "Orpheus and Eurydice"
1st Movement of Liszt's E Minor Concerto.
There were several guests as well as the pupils at the school in attendance last evening.

Entertained at Party
Mrs. Minnie Baer of 54 Andrew street has been spending this past week in New York city visiting her relatives. Having gone to New York city to honor the birthday of her sister, Mrs. J. A. Swanberg, Mrs. Baer was guest of honor at a surprise birthday party for herself. The party was held July 19 at the home of her niece, Mrs. R. W. Granville of 207 Kensington avenue, Lynbrook, L. I. About 50 persons attended this social and surprise birthday party for Mrs. Baer and her sister, Mrs. Swanberg.

Announce Engagement
Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. LeFever of Bloomington announce the engagement of their son, Raymond Freer, to Miss Rose Isabelle Feltman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Feltman of Walton. The wedding will take place in the First Baptist Church of Walton, Saturday, August 23, at 8 p. m.

Card Parties
Atharhacton Lodge
Atharhacton Lodge will hold a card party, Wednesday evening, July 23, at 96 St. James street. All members and friends are urged to attend.

Two nights were spent in Niagara Falls, Canada, and a day at Victoria Park. From this point they could see the Horseshoe Falls down along the whirlpool rapids and the aerial cars. More pictures were taken of the falls, several of which were taken at night with the white and colored lights playing on the water.
There were hundreds of R. A. F. and Canadian army men at Niagara Falls as a barracks was located there. People are kept from the barracks by six feet of barbed wire entanglements but the travelers were interested in watching the changing of the guards.
The trip home was made by way of Rochester and down to Seneca falls where they stopped for another picnic. From there the same route back to Cairo was taken. On this homeward journey Helen, Doris and Robert played rummy which they would recommend to pass the time while traveling.

98th Birthday

Mrs. Cornelia A. Jansen, a resident at the home for the aged will be 98 years old tomorrow, July 23. Mrs. Jansen was born in Woodburn, Sullivan county, lived most of her life in Ulsterville and since 1922, has lived at the home for the aged. Her pet hobbies are reading and listening to good radio programs.

They would suggest the central part of New York state as an ideal vacation spot. There are miles of highway which seem to continuously go up one hill and down to the foot of another. From the top of these hills views of all the surrounding country may be seen. Another picturesque drive is along Lake Erie but the Finger Lakes region completely charmed the Kennedys.

Former Rifton Girl to Marry

New York, July 21 (Special)—Miss Elizabeth Margaret Ringwald, a nurse, formerly of Rifton, now of 205 East 88th street, New York, and Philip Joseph Oates, of 130 Vanderbilt avenue, this city, obtained a license to marry today in the Municipal Building here. The couple said they would be wed by the Rev. Father Schneider in St. Catherine's Church in New York later this week. The bride-to-be was born in Rifton, the daughter of Peter H. and Sarah A. McHugh Ringwald. Mr. Oates, son of Joseph and Angelina Doty Oates, is a native of New York.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a Hostess," "The Book of Social Usage," etc.)

NOTE OF THANKS ONLY EXACTION OF ETIQUETTE FOR YOUNG VISITORS

If a boy (or girl) is old enough to pay visits on his own to his young friends, then he is old enough to be made take the responsibility himself when he returns home, of writing a thank-you note to their mother. This note is really the only exaction of etiquette after staying in someone's house; the only return any well-brought up child would be expected to make for the family's hospitality.

Today, as in almost every collection of letters, there is one that explains who might possibly be an exception to the rule. It is from a mother who writes me that her son, aged nine, has so far this summer visited the families of two young friends, who are at summer resorts, and that he now has a third invitation.

"In the first two cases," she explains, "each family having only one child I gave in and let him take a present to his friend. But if I allow him to accept this new invitation, will it mean letting him take four presents, since there are two children who are equally his friends, and two other younger children?"

It might mean taking two presents to the older children simply to avoid running the risk of hurting them. In other words, if all these friends concerned are friends of each other, the last two might sometime hear from the other two about the things he brought them. But if this is not likely and you feel that you can not afford even two inexpensive presents, perhaps you can persuade him to put the idea out of mind this time by explaining to him that taking presents at such times is a question entirely of what one can do and not of what one is expected to do.

Grandmothers Are Near Relatives

Dear Mrs. Post: Is a grandmother considered a near relative? By this I mean would her name be included in the arrangements already made for a very big wedding?

Answer: Most certainly a grandmother is a near relation! She is but one degree removed from mother and father. By this I mean that under ordinary circumstances a very big wedding would have to be postponed for a season at least, or else the word "big" changed to "very small." Since this question is asked in the first place it may be that the circumstances are not ordinary. It may be that the grandmother lives far away—even perhaps abroad and that the grand-daughter knows little about her, and has never even known personally. In such a case as this the wedding might perhaps take place as planned. But if the grandmother lived in town and was supposedly well-loved by the bride, an immediate wedding of any size would be much criticized.

Clothes At A Double Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: At a double wedding of sisters, are their dresses supposed to be exactly alike? Also, are there separate groups of attendants supposed to wear identical dresses?

Answer: Not necessarily in either case. The dresses would, of course, all have to be in harmony to the extent of looking well together. It would hardly be correct for one group to be in modern clothes and the other of a different period.

Mrs. Edmund Wager and children spent the past week-end with relatives in Ohioville.

Mrs. M. Augusta Johnston visited Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gerow and daughters in New Paltz, Sunday afternoon.

Don't Turn Backward
Concord, N. C. (AP) — When Tom Stillwell read reports of a possible gasoline shortage, he decided to hitch old Dobbin to the hay for his next trip downtown. "Parked" on a main street, Dobbin soon found a traffic ticket attached to his bride. Even a horse, it seemed, couldn't stop next to a fire plug.

Lovely "Heirloom" Rug You Can Make Yourself

French Knots! Candlewick

What pleasant summer occupation than making yourself this pretty rug? Though it's easy to make and sturdy—simple French knots of candlewick on a burlap base—it's as exquisite as a fine French carpet.

The colors of your future "heirloom" might bear blue for the diamond-shaped panel, aquamarine for the border, turquoise blue for the corners. For the flowers use dainty pale hues.

On the burlap draw first outline of the rug, 20 by 20 inches, ruling thin two diamonds 2 1/2 inches apart. Then sketch in simple flower-and-leaf shapes.

To make a French knot, thread a tufting needle with candlewick yarn and bring it up through burlap. Now twist it point of the needle three times around yarn to right, as in outsketch, and insert the needle close to where it came up.

When the wire surface of your rug is covered with knots, turn under edges of the burlap and whip together with denim backing.

You'll be proud of your beautiful handiwork! Our 32-page booklet gives directions for French knot rug in detail, also tells how to make fine hooked, woven, braided, crocheted, tufted and other favorite types of rugs.

Send 10 cents coin for your copy of HOW TO MAKE YOUR OWN RUGS to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Immediate Results

An item in the lost column of The Freeman classified section last evening brought immediate results. A strip silk bag containing keys, etc., had been lost between 137 Clinton avenue and DeWitt Lake, Sunday. The finder, Miss Goshline, 4 Second avenue, returned the bag immediately after the Freeman came out last evening. The advertisement was inserted only once.

Camp Happyland To Have Annual Day for Parents

This week the boys of Camp Happyland—44 strong—are inviting their parents and relatives to visit them on next Sunday, July 27. Visiting hours will be from 3 to 5 in the afternoon.

The children with their counselors, Terwilliger and Reynolds, are busy preparing an entertainment for the occasion.

Because of the value of nutrition in childhood and the great part it is now playing in the home defense program, the tuberculosis committee is planning to especially stress this project with parents and children during the 1941 season.

A copy of a typical camp Happyland menu and schedule will be distributed to the parents on visiting day. The children will relate to their visitors all about vitamins, minerals, etc., which they consume each day in their three regular meals with plenty of vegetables and fruits as well as a quart of milk a day for each child.

In the schedule will be shown that much needed bed-rest period between one and three every afternoon.

The tuberculosis committee urges all those friends who are interested in the children to visit the camp Sunday and learn at first hand more about this educational program, which is one of the investments made through dollars provided by the many Ulster county folks, who each year purchase health bonds and Christmas seals.

Mr. Reigler is expected to enter the ministry of the Episcopal church and become a rector of a church in the western part of the country.

The first three men of the local draft board No. 314, Saugerties, who were chosen in the draft lottery for U. S. Army service, July 17 were Benjamin F. Hill, Ulster avenue, Saugerties; John V. Amendola, Glasco; Harold J. Morse, Mt. Tremper.

Sergeant Stephen Martino of Barclay Heights, this village has been selected to be one of the enlisted men to attend the new Officers Candidate Schools. Sergeant Martino is a member of the 156th Field Artillery, Battery A stationed at Fort Dix, N. J. and will attend the Officers Candidate School at Fort Sill, Okla.

Mrs. Holt N. Winfield of Ulster Park was hostess for luncheon and bridge at the Schoenaght Colonial Tavern on the Kings Highway this town, Thursday, July 17. Guests present were Mrs. C. C. DuMond, Mrs. John W. Matthews, Mrs. Jay W. Rifenbary, Mrs. George B. Matthews, Mrs. Charles Snyder, Mrs. Hollis Ingraham, and Mrs. Harry Klothe.

Chief A. W. Richter and family of Main street was called to Amsterdam, last Thursday where his father, Charles A. Richter, died. The latter was well-known here having visited his son and family only a short time ago.

The annual picnic of the Women's Missionary Society of the Atonement Lutheran church will be held this Thursday at North Lake in the Catskills. The bus will leave the church at 10 o'clock.

The annual Katsbaan fair and supper will be held in the Reformed church parish hall in that community July 30. A fine display of fancy work and numerous booths, which will have articles for both young and old, will be on hand. All are invited to attend.

Crashes Guard Post

Claiming she was blinded by brilliant headlights Mrs. Norris A. Dauchy of Poughkeepsie drove her car off the highway a mile south of Milton Sunday night and crashed into a cement guard post badly damaging the car. Mr. and Mrs. Dauchy escaped serious injury. State Trooper William Martin said Mrs. Dauchy suffered minor body bruises.

'Rabies Girl' Found

Smiling Kathleen Ann Hudson, 4, was undergoing a series of treatments for prevention of rabies in New York after she had been located by a guide at the New York end of the Holland tunnel from New Jersey. Kathleen was traveling with her parents from their home in Tulsa, Okla., to New England. It was feared that the girl who had played with a cat which later died of rabies, might have become infected with the disease.

Collection Time Set

Chairman Henry Fox of the Fifth ward has announced the collection of aluminum in that ward will be on Wednesday evening between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock. Anyone who is unable to be home on that evening may leave the metal on the front porch and it will be picked up by the collectors.

The manufacture of salad dressing is a 48 million dollar industry in terms of value of annual production, according to factory reports to the Census Bureau.

America's largest food crop is corn.

Town of Hurley Route Not on County Program

Included in the county road improvement program for this year, as adopted by the Board of Supervisors on May 28, was a project to widen and straighten out the Mountain road in the town of Hurley. For that project the sum of $6,000 was allocated.

However when the county highway program was submitted to the State Department of Highways for approval that project was disallowed and up to the present time official sanction of the state department has not been had and consequently the improvement will not be included in this year's program.

The portion of the Mountain road lying in the town of Ulster was improved and widened with W.P.A. funds some time ago but the Hurley end of the route remains narrow and extremely crooked in places.

Block Party Wednesday

The Seventh Ward will hold a block party on Wednesday evening, July 23, on Abel street between Wurts and Hone streets. The party will be for the benefit of the aluminum campaign and the price of admission will be one article of aluminum. Herbert Wolfe, chairman of the committee in that ward, announces that Pardee, Allen and Amarello, known as the Catskill Mountaineers, and the two sons of Mr. Amarello will donate their services in furnishing the music.

Harlem Valley Has Strong Club Ready for Recs Wednesday

Wingdale Visitors Have Captured 17 Wins This Season

Charlie Neff Is Scheduled to Hurl for Local Club; Whitesell and Downer Will Play

Wednesday night's baseball attraction at the municipal stadium will feature the strong Harlem Valley team from Wingdale against Joe Hoffman's inspired Recreationers. Game time is scheduled for 9 o'clock.

The Recs received a shot in the arm Sunday when they turned back Freddie Dahn's Poughkeepsie Roe Movers for the second time this year. Manager Hoffman also found a reliable flinger in Bill Thomas who appeared on the hill for the first time in a couple of seasons. Poughkeepsie had battered the offerings of Al Proia and Bob Bush before Hoffman sent in Thomas.

The Harlem Valley club is about tops as far as semi-pro teams are concerned. The Wingdalers have a record of 17 wins and only four losses for the year. Sageries managed to clip Harlem Valley Sunday for the latter's first league setback of the season. They had a perfect record in the first round standings.

Good Power Hitters

Featured on the visitors Wednesday will be Dick Whitesell, former Poughkeepsie High star, now at Syracuse, the same school which Tommy Maines attends; Elbert Johnson, ace spitball moundman and Ernie Downer, former Cornell University star. Whitesell is a power hitter all the way.

Last week Harlem Valley halted West Stockbridge's 15-game winning streak by 11 to 3, showing some of the strength which this club has. West Stockbridge had previously trimmed the Recs by 10 to 1 earlier in the campaign. Johnny Gilbert toed the slab for Wingdale and permitted 10 hits.

Charlie Neff will attempt to get back his winning form Wednesday. He received some vicious treatment when he started against the Baltimore Elite Giants last week. Neff nearly worked a full game Sunday night in the bullpen, getting ready for any needed work on his part.

A Poughkeepsie sports writer has tabbed the State Hospital club on the par with any minor league outfit and that alone speaks for the calibre of the club. The champs of the Hudson Valley Twilight League in 1940, is now making a serious bid for honors in both halves of the Mid-Hudson circuit.

Looking at Wednesday's visitors finds Ruggiero at first. The first sacker is a graduate of St. Michael's and while playing the bag in the metropolitan district, received a couple of offers from other clubs. Crawford, a veteran semi-pro star and ex-minor league sensation, plays second. Experts look on Crawford as the cream of the crop of keystones in this section. The "hot corner" is taken over by Collins. Shortstop finds a very ambidextrous youth who is a junior in high school by the name of Pollock. Pollock exerts around his position as a right hander and when needed, can play first base left handed. He has been scouted by a number of big league scouts and in all probability will be given an offer when he concludes school.

The outfield, one of the strongest in the district, finds Dick Whitesell in left. Opposing hurlers have agreed that Dick is just about the toughest hitter to throw against. Ernie Downer, former Cornell athlete, plays center. He formerly held a contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Sottilie, a rabbit-like runner, holds down the right field slot.

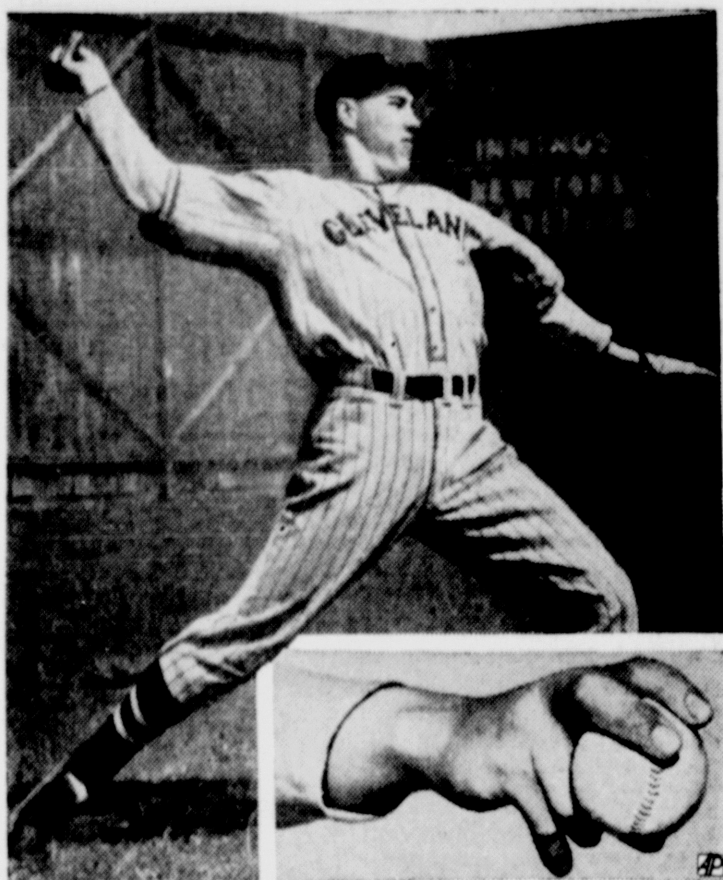

Johnny Gilbert, Elbert Johnson and Finn make up the hurling staff. Williams, a star athlete at Michigan University and Schuyler are the two receivers. Williams will start against the Recreationers.

Foxx Likes Tigers

Jimmie Foxx, Boston first sacker, seems to like the offerings of the Detroit pitchers for he has made seven of his 14 home runs off the Tiger hurlers. Two off Gossica and one each off Beaton, Newsom, Rowe, Thomas and McKain. On the other hand, Rudy York, Tiger first baseman, has made six of his 17 home runs off Boston throwers, two off Wagner and one each off Newsome, Dobson, Johnson and Judd.

Yankees Are Ready to Sew Up American League Race As Western Teams Arrive

Ace Hurler Explains Success

BOB FELLER

Rapid Bobby Feller, ace of the Cleveland Indians' mound staff, says "there's no real mystery about my fast ball—it's just what the name implies." "But there is a little more to it than just rarin' back and lettin' her fly," Bob continues. "I grip the ball as almost every other pitcher does, across the seams well forward in the hand, as shown in the picture. My usual delivery is what is known as a three quarters overhand. I vary that delivery a little according to the batter I'm facing—for instance, for a batter with a closed stance I use a full overhand. To throw a fast ball you must be sure that your stride is in perfect time with your arm as it comes around. I let the ball go from my fingers just at the time it passes my ear, or when my arm is extended straight out from my shoulder. And I grip the ball just a little more firmly at the moment preceding release. A good fast ball pitcher must have strength, but that strength must be of the graceful, loose type that lets him get a full whip into all his pitches. My advice to beginners is to forget curves for a while. Stick with control, then work on speed. Control and speed will win plenty of ball games."

Feller and Indians Get Final Chance to Stop Bronx Bombers in Series Today

(By The Associated Press)

A week ago the big question in the American League was whether the New York Yankees would sew up the pennant in their remaining games in the west. They did.

Now the question is whether they will turn the "race" into an utter rout or let the vanquished drag along in pain a while longer.

The Bombers won 11 out of their last 13 contests in a triumphant swing through the western half of the circuit and have won 34 of their past 40 in a tremendous spurt that has dwarfed the efforts of all the other clubs.

As the spotlight swung back to the east today the Yankees were 14 games in front of the Boston Red Sox, 15½ ahead of the Chicago White Sox and 17½ on top of the Detroit Tigers, the defending champions.

Indians, Yanks Play

Only the Cleveland Indians, seven games back in second place, have even the remotest hope of overtaking the pacemakers and they are going to be given their last chance in a three-game series in New York today, tomorrow and Thursday.

The Yanks have whipped the Tribe in nine of the 13 tilts they have played to date and this record is not encouraging to Cleveland fans. Their chief hope is that the Yanks will trip over a hurdle named Bob Feller and that they will have a chance to pounce on the New Yorkers while they are down.

Feller was to go to the mound today in quest of his 20th victory. Being the pitcher he is, the odds always are in his favor and he may get it. He has beaten the Yanks three times and lost once to them this year.

If he should lose again, then Cleveland might as well kiss the boys goodbye.

Nationals Move Next

The scenery shifts in both leagues this week, with the National League action moving into the west.

The Brooklyn Dodgers stayed behind yesterday to clean up some unfinished business in the only game of the day in either loop. But instead of improving their position at the top of the senior circuit the Dodgers dropped an 8-3 decision to the Pittsburgh Pirates and headed away from home last night a chastened and disconcerted outfit.

The Pirates pasted four Brooklyn pitchers for 11 hits, including a pair of two-run homers by Elbie Fletcher and Vince DiMaggio. While this was going on Lefty Ken Heintzelman held the Dodgers nicely in check on 10 hits.

This was Brooklyn's fourth defeat in five games and cut the Dodgers' first place margin over the St. Louis Cardinals to one game.

The Dodgers will open their tour at Cincinnati and won't reach St. Louis for another "crucial" series with the Cardinals until next week.

Chalets Divide With All Stars

Don Weeks Hurls Victory on Three-Hitter, 7-1

The Chalet softball club scored an even split in Sunday's twin bill at Poughkeepsie with the Green All Stars. Don Weeks hurred Kingston to the first victory by hurling a three-hitter to win, 7-1. Poughkeepsie won the second by 12 to 8.

The Chalets whipped into Doc Kovacs in the opener with 11 hits. A big five run rally in the third frame clinched the contest. Lindhurst, Kelder, Hughes and Purvis rapped out two hits apiece for the victors.

In the nightcap the Chalets, with Freer on the mound, maintained a 3-2 lead until the Poughkeepsie club went to work with a run in the fourth and seven in the fifth to "ice" the battle. Kingston scored five markers in the sixth but it wasn't enough to overcome the Bridge City's lead.

Saugerties Defeats Harlem Valley, 5-1

Eddie Wallace Stops First Half Champions

With Eddie Wallace hurling effective ball the Saugerties baseball club scored a major upset in the Mid-Hudson League Sunday night by beating Harlem Valley in Wingdale by 5 to 1. It was the first loss for the State Hospital club in the league this year.

Wallace hurled five-hit ball to check the powerful Wingdalers. Rog. Cappano and Mickey Finn worked for the losers and permitted 12 hits. Sunday afternoon Cape Falls defeated Saugerties by 6 to 5 behind the twirling of Mil-

Recreations Sign Two New Players, Yanni and Steffins

Albany Infielder and Once Temple University Hurler Join Club in Attempts to Rebuild Locals

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Recreation baseball club, two new players were signed for quick delivery. Chuck Yanni of the Albany McEnannys and Don Steffins, former varsity hurler with Temple University, have been signed to bolster the club.

Yanni, a familiar player with many of the Recreationers, is considered the finest fielder in the Albany City League. He'll be in uniform to play third base against Harlem Valley Wednesday night.

The acquisition of Yanni means in all probability that Andy Celuch, one of last year's mainstays, has come to the end of his active service with the club. All this year Andy has been having a difficult time of it at his "hot corner" and the Recs realize that a change had to be made at once.

Steffins has been another outstanding hurler in the capital district after his school days at Temple in Philadelphia. He was a star flinger with Troy, Tommy Maines, local outfielder, comes to bat for Steffins as saying "he's one slick pitcher and I'll be only too glad that he's pitching for us and not for the opposition."

The locals' pitching staff which hasn't been too effective of late will in no uncertain manner be bolstered by the addition of Steffins. He might be with the Recs tomorrow for the arduous tussle with the Wingdale club.

Streak Since May 14

Charley Ruffing has not lost a game since May 14, his 1 to 0 victory over the White Sox in 11 innings at Comiskey Park, July 13 being his seventh in a row, practically pitching only once a week.

Richest Program
At Goshen Tracks*$35,000 in Purses for Six Days of Grand Circuit

Goshen, N. Y., June 22—Thirty-five thousand dollars in purses for six days of Grand Circuit racing at historic half-mile track here, July 28 to August 2, makes Goshen's first meeting of 1941 the richest program ever presented at the century-old trotting speedway. This year, races will be held on Saturday, August 2, for the first time in many years to permit those who work during the week to catch a day of fast sulky-pulling.

One new feature, the $6,000 Coaching Club Trotting Oaks, joins many old favorites such as the Historic stake, the E. H. Harriman Challenge Trophy, the Village Farm pacing stakes and free-for-alls for both trotters and pacers. The Coaching Club Oaks is actually a feminine preview to the Hambletonian which comes one week later at Good Time Track, for the "Oaks" is restricted to three-year-old fillies. Eight out of its 12 entries are candidates for the Hambletonian, with E. R. Harriman's Florimel favored to win the "Oaks" and swing on to victory in the $40,000 trotting derby.

Additional pari-mutuel betting windows have been added at Historic track directly under the grandstand where they are within easy reach of the crowds which patronized them heavily last summer. More single dashes, of varying distances, have been added to the program this year to give fans a wider variety of horses to watch.

Although Mr. Harriman captured the third and final leg of the old E. H. Harriman Challenge Trophy last year when Florimel won this $2,000 classic for juveniles, the donor of the "mug" and owner of Historic track has offered a new trophy this year.

Fifty two-year-olds are today eligible to the Harriman Challenge Trophy stake, with whoever wins it headed for sure-fire honors in 1942 if history repeats itself.

The heaviest concentration of fast horses and expert reinsmen which Mr. Harriman reports he has ever seen is assured for Historic Track's Grand Circuit card, Goshen, for the first time in its history, is giving two consecutive weeks of top-flight harness racing, with the first program at Historic the week of July 28th, and the second week at Good Time Track the week of August 4th.

Streaky Hitter

GOLF PROFESSIONALS SELECT 1941 ALL-STAR TEAM

Hogan, driver

Runyan, spoon

Nelson, long irons

Picard, medium irons

Revolta, traps

Smith, putter

By BOB GEIGER

AP Feature Service Writer

Now that the last putt has dropped in all the major American golf championships open to professionals, it seems timely to select an All-Star team for 1941.

And who could choose such a team better than the players themselves? Twenty of the top flight pros were polled by the Associated Press Feature Service and the results of their balloting were surprising only in that neither Craig Wood, the Open champion, nor Vic Ghezzi, the PGA king, were rated tops at any shot.

The pros said three stars stand head and shoulders above all others in their particular specialties—

Byron Nelson, the ex-caddy from Texas and 1940 PGA champion, is tops as a long iron player.

Long, thin Horton Smith is the master among masters of the putter.

And Johnny Revolta is the cleverest sand trap performer.

These stood out but the balloting was close in the other departments of links play.

Among the spoon shot artists, Paul Runyan got the decision, with Harry Cooper a close second.

Henry Picard, ranked as a great iron player for years, was voted tops with the medium irons, while Runyan and Revolta were rated about even with the pitching irons.

Golf enthusiasts have generally regarded long-hitting Jimmy Thomson and Sam Snead as the driving kings, but the pros give the crown to little Ben Hogan. They figure that, considering accuracy as well as distance, Hogan is best.

Nelson, runner-up in the PGA championship at Denver the other day, had a bigger edge over his long iron rivals than did any of the other players in their specialties. Byron drew 13 votes, while his closest contenders, Denny Shute and Hogan, had two each. Smith also had a big margin, 11 votes as best putter as against four for Runyan.

While Vic Ghezzi, the handsome 1941 PGA champion, didn't win a first place in any of the seven divisions in which the pros voted, his all around ability was recognized as he was mentioned as a medium iron expert, an excellent short iron player and a trap shot standout.

Wood drew votes as a driver, spoon shot player, and an expert with both the long and medium irons.

American Legion Event
Will Start Harness Races
Next Monday at Saratoga*2,000 Horses Available for Season; 8-Race Program Listed
for First Day

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 22—With several hundred thoroughbreds already on the grounds at this historic race course, and van and car loads arriving daily, 2,000 horses will be available for competition, when the bugle blows first post next Monday for the opening of the annual summer meeting—this year called Defense Day. And Defense Day, named by George H. Bull, president of the Saratoga Association, due to present world conditions, will be highlighted by the American Legion Handicap. High ranking army and navy officers have been invited to attend, as well as numerous officials of the American Legion.

Although no steepchases are scheduled for Mondays during the last four weeks of the meeting, Mr. Bull ruled that in carrying out old traditions of the track there should be one on opening day, making an eight-race program. First post will be 2:30 p. m., daylight time, "Dolly" Gray, bugler at New York tracks for several decades, will again sound-off during the 30-day meeting.

Racing Secretary John B. Campbell has been busy the past few weeks building up a program for the meeting, which will feature many overnight events, that will be as highly competitive and exciting as many of the big stake races. Fred Parks, steeplechase racing secretary, expects to put on five jumping races weekly.

Although busy at the current

Empire City meeting, where he is also president, Mr. Bull has been putting in long week-ends at the Spa course, whipping into shape every detail to make this meeting one of the best in the history of the track.

"Everything is ready for next Monday's opening," Mr. Bull declared today before leaving for Empire City for the final five days of that meeting. "We believe we will have one of the greatest and finest meetings here this year that we have ever had. Nothing has been left undone and we expect to have sporty, competitive racing, living up to all the traditions of the Jockey Club and the American turf."

Freeman Will Play
436 Club Tonight*Hartman and Scharp Due to Start on Hill

The Freeman softball club will endeavor to get back into the winning column again tonight at the high school diamond by meeting the 436 Club of this city. Game time is scheduled for 6:30 o'clock. Jack Hartman and Lou Netter, hurlers for the Printers, are ready to go. Last week the Wilbur Dodge Girls scored an upset victory over the Freeman club. Netter was the losing moundman. Walt Scharp will do the hurling for the 436 Club.

The last time out Scharp was shelled from the mound by the Printers. Since then, however, he has pitched some great ball and points to tonight's contest for revenge.

Robinson Awarded
Non-Title Triumph
Over Sam Angott*14,500 Fans Witness Bout
in Philly Ball Park;
Winner Will Meet
Davey Day Next

Philadelphia, July 22 (AP)—They were calling Ray Robinson the lightweight division's "clean-up hitter" today as plans were started to match Harlem's skinny sky-rocket with Chicago's Davey Day in the next step on his sleep-making parade.

The dusky dynamiter from New York punched out a slashing, tough, but clean-cut decision over one-half of the world lightweight championship in Sammy Angott before a crowd of 14,500 fans in a non-title tussle at Shibe Park last night, and immediately the older inhabitants dubbed him "the next champ."

He can't get the other half of the crown for a while yet. That is held by Lew Jenkins, the Texas thumper who is sanctioned as boss by the New York commission and who has a date to meet Angott in New York's Madison Square Garden October 3 to clear up the up-to-now laughable lightweight follies, which were started when the N.B.A. took Lou Ambers' title away a couple of years ago.

Bobby Riggs Seeks Double Tennis Win
In Comeback Role*Riggs Aims to Capture
Title at Seabright and National Later at Forest Hills

Seabright, N. J., July 22 (AP)—In the expert opinion of Bobby Riggs, the player who wins the men's singles championship in the 54th annual Seabright tennis tournament will go on to capture the national title at Forest Hills—and the little Chicagoan aims to do just that.

Somewhat of a forgotten man in big-league tennis since he lost the U. S. crown last September, Riggs is steaming along nicely in his comeback campaign. He's aiming at winning the Seabright title a fourth time, which never has been done before.

"All of the stars are here, and they're all trying hard," said Bobby yesterday after his impressive first-round win. "There'll be no punches pulled, and the fellow who comes out on top should get the necessary lift to carry him through the nationals."

As for himself, he feels stronger than ever before, chiefly because of added weight. "I hit about 140 now, and don't get tired the way I used to," he explained.

Johnny Cooney, pacemaking hitter of Casey Stengel's Boston Braves all spring, isn't letting any moss grow on that plaque presented him by the Boston baseball writers last winter for being his club's most-valuable-player of 1940. Sometimes an award like that is the signal for retiring on laurels. Johnny, already the marvel of the age because he was a Boston pitcher 20 years ago and a star outfielder today, acts more as if the plaque is something he has to win three legs on for permanent possession. What a story! Start of '40, old Case signed old John as a coach and assigned him to teach the youthful fly-chasers how to get there by the time the ball came down. After watching Cooney beat all the boys to the ball for about a week, the astute Stengel decided the wrong fellows were chasing the flies. So John not only got reappointed No. 1 outfielder but led the team in hitting, finished third in the league with .318 for the season, and sailed into July of this year with the top batting average of his club, well above .300. Coaches can't do that.

Right down the corridor from the No-Hit Hall of Fame is the niche reserved for No-Chance First-Basemen. If James (Ripper) Collins, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is observed walking around holding his chest out in front of him Sunday, June 23, he's only celebrating the fourth anniversary of China shipped 4,669 tons of peanuts to South America last year.

National League figurers point out that the St. Louis Cardinals are setting a dizzy pace that last year's Cincinnati Reds at this stage of the pennant race. The Redbirds registered their 40th win of the year with only 18 defeats on their slate. Last June 30, when the Reds rang up No. 40, they had already been beaten 21 times.

Billy Soose Has Grudge to Settle
With Abrams*Middleweight Champion Is Determined to Wipe Out
Previous Defeats by Next Week's Foe

Billy Soose, world middleweight champion, who boxes Georgie Abrams at Madison Square Garden in New York next Wednesday night, July 30, says he won't be satisfied with his title until he has wiped out the pair of defeats he suffered at the hands of Abrams before he captured the crown from Ken Overlin.

Talking with reporters at his training camp at Lake Wallenpaupack, Pa., near Scranton, Billy Soose took on the same outlook as Joe Louis who never really considered himself world heavyweight champ until he had wiped out the defeat which Max Schmeling had administered a year before Louis won the title from Braddock.

Two years ago in Pittsburgh, Abrams won a close decision from Soose. The following February the two met again in a 10-rounder. Again Abrams was the winner.

Today there isn't an outstanding middleweight in the country who hasn't been beaten by Soose—that is, with the exception of Abrams. Ken Overlin, Tony Zale, Tami Mauriello, Ernie Vigh, all have had their records marred by the classy Farrell, Pa., champion.

Home Run Clouters

American League sluggers reasonably sure of hitting 20 or more home runs this year are Joe DiMaggio, who already has hit 20 four-sackers, Keller, Williams, Foxx, York, Gordon, Johnson, Clift, Heath, Keltner and Henrich.

Yanks His Jinx

Three of Emil Leonard's seven victories this season have been at the expense of the Chicago White Sox. On the other hand, he has lost four straight to the Yankees.

The Cincinnati Reds sailed into July last year with a game and a half lead over second place. By August 1 it was 7½. As of now, they're far in arrears of their lofty 1940 status quo but the same royal route through July will put them close to even terms with the National League pacemakers come dog-day. Can this year's Reds tie last year's July pace? Well, just lately they've been not only tying, but beating, their 1940 pace. The Reds last year lost seven games between their 17th win and their 30th. This year's Reds, when they chalked up No. 30 on June 18, had lost only four games since their 17th victory.

Right down the corridor from the No-Hit Hall of Fame is the niche reserved for No-Chance First-Basemen. If James (Ripper) Collins, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is observed walking around holding his chest out in front of him Sunday, June 23, he's only celebrating the fourth anniversary of China shipped 4,669 tons of peanuts to South America last year.

Severe Typhoon Strikes Japan

Uncounted Homes, Crops Are Inundated; Tokyo Is Out of Path

Tokyo, July 22 (AP)—A typhoon hit the Japanese city of Shizuoka today and its wind-driven deluge was added to a week of general rains which flooded thousands of homes, inundated crops and hampered rail service.

Troops helped inhabitants to withdraw from Tsuchiura, a town of 40,000 about 40 miles northeast of Tokyo, because of the rising waters of Lake Kasumigaura.

Shizuoka is 150 miles southwest of Tokyo. Weather observers said that they expected the typhoon to pass into the Sea of Japan and that the capital was out of its center.

Pre-typhoon rainfall, however, flooded 12,000 homes in Tokyo alone and a Tama river dike gave way, sweeping the water into thousands of other houses between Tokyo and Yokohama.

Casualties aboard fishing boats at sea were expected to be high. Eleven fishermen already were reported missing.

The western side of the Shimizu-tani tunnel 20 miles past Yokohama on the main rail line to Osaka and Kobe was blocked by a landslide, forcing rerouting of express traffic.

The situation claimed the attention of the new Kono cabinet's first regular meeting, which heard a report on food supply.

Rice fields and vegetable tracts vital for the metropolitan food supply, also were under water. Service in the Tokyo 12 mile long subway was halted by the floods.

The typhoon was reported over the southwest coast of Tokyo and the weather bureau said it might hit the capital tonight.

Woman and Daughter Are Held for Assault

Mrs. Ethel Vitamar, 55, of Riffon and her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Stigliano, 28, of East Orange, N. J., were arrested yesterday afternoon at Riffon by Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne on a charge of assault, third degree.

The assault took place when an argument over a pulley line on the property came up for a family discussion.

Deputy Winne said the arrest on a warrant followed a dispute between members of the family and a step-son of Mrs. Vitamar, sought the arrest of his step-mother and her daughter when it is claimed the son's daughter was attacked and her glasses broken.

Arraigned before Justice John Beaver at Esopus the two were held in $100 bail each and a hearing set down for a later date. The two were brought to jail and released when bail was supplied.

Four Arrested

Four more autoists were arrested Monday on charges of failing to observe the full stop signs. All four furnished bail for their appearance later in police court. The four were Albert J. Kennedy of R.F.D. 1, Walkkill; Myron Silkworth of 219 Clifton avenue; William T. Squires of 119 Downs street, and John H. Wilkane of Brooklyn. Benjamin Pandorf of East Rutherford, N. J., charged with passing a red traffic light, furnished bail for his appearance later in court.

As did George Harris of Maiden Lane, charged with operating a car without wearing eye-glasses. He had been granted a driving license provided he wore glasses while driving.

Fines Are Assessed

New York, July 22 (AP)—Fines totaling $76,500 were assessed in Federal Court today against four corporations, including one concern in Germany, and seven individuals, who pleaded nolo contendere to an indictment charging violations of the anti-trust laws in the production and sale of magnesite and magnesite bricks. Dead burned magnesite and magnesite bricks are used for furnaces in steel and copper mills.

King Sees Hopkins

London, July 22 (AP)—Harry Hopkins, United States lease-lend administrator, was received in audience by King George today at Buckingham Palace. The king also received Prime Minister Churchill.

DIED

BEARDSLEY—In this city, July 22, 1941, Mary Ella Bidwell Beardsley, wife of Marion E. Beardsley, died early this morning. Funeral will be held at her late residence, 13 Abbey street, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Relatives and friends are invited. Interment in the Montrose Cemetery.

ELTING—In this city, July 20, 1941, Philip Elting, 106 Maiden Lane, on Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. Relatives and friends are invited. Interment private in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Friends may call at the residence on Tuesday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock.

Attention Members of Kingston Lodge No. 10, F. and A. M.

Former Lackawack Workman Stabbed In Village Fight

Bottle and Knife Brought Into Action at Hotel as Two Men Get Into Tavern Row

Orville Justice, who up until about a year ago when he suffered severe injuries, was employed on the Lackawack dam project, is being held by Ellenville police on an assault charge growing out of a stabbing at the Central Hotel in Ellenville yesterday.

Elijah C. Flowers of Jacksonville, Florida, an employee at the Overlook Hotel at Ellenville, is in Veterans' Memorial Hospital at Ellenville, with a serious stab wound in his chest. His condition was reported today as serious.

The affair took place at the hotel when Flowers allegedly entered the tavern where Justice is boarding and an argument ensued.

Justice was being held by the Ellenville police for a hearing later today before Justice Herman Cohen. Officers Grogg and Band took Justice in custody at his boarding place after the affair.

It was said that Justice was in the tap-room when Flowers entered the place and they had a couple of rounds of drinks together. For some unknown reason an argument then began and it is alleged that Flowers struck Justice over the head with a bottle.

Flowers is said to have drawn a pocket knife but Justice took the knife away and peace momentarily was restored. Witnesses to the act say that Flowers later picked the knife up from the bar where it had been lying and attempted to stab Justice.

An employee of the place again took the knife away and then Justice is said to have attempted to strike Justice with a chair. At this point in the fracas Justice allegedly drew his own pocket knife and thrust it into Flowers' chest.

Justice then went to his room and awaited the arrival of the officers and Flowers was taken to the hospital where he was attended for a severe stab wound. Justice was treated at his boarding place for cuts on the head made by the bottle, 10 stitches being required to close the wound which Flowers had allegedly inflicted with the beer bottle.

Flowers condition was reported as serious this morning. It was reported that the wound came so close to the heart that this organ was exposed in the wound.

Annulment Is Granted

Kansas City, July 22 (AP)—Pretty Lenore Long Bales was granted an annulment today of her marriage to 19-year-old Lynn V. Bowman whom she accused of forcing her to take a 225-mile ride to Wichita, Kas., barefoot and in a play suit, to "talk things over."

The 18-year-old University of Kansas City student testified she eloped with Bowman to Olathe, Kas., the night of June 1 after he had threatened to "tell of an episode that would be embarrassing and humiliating to my father" if she did not marry him.

Johnson Testifies

Camden, N. J., July 22 (AP)—Enoch L. (Nucky) Johnson, Atlantic City Republican leader, testified in his own defense today that he never knowingly defrauded the government of taxes on his 1935-36-37 incomes. The government contends the baldish, 69-year-old defendant received $199,000 during those years, which he did not report. Of this amount, the prosecution charges, $171,000 was for "protecting" a numbers syndicate at the shore resort and the other $28,000 was from the profits on the construction of a railroad station at Atlantic City.

Auditor Is Arrested

New York, July 22 (AP)—An auditor for the Market Administration of the Agriculture Department, Robert E. Levine, 31, on being arrested by the F. B. I. on charges of soliciting and receiving a bribe from the Sheffield Farms Milk Co. The arrest, made with the cooperation of the company, was announced yesterday by J. Edgar Hoover, F. B. I. director, who said Levine asked $3,000 down payment and $5,200 a year from the company for "confidential information about its competitors, especially in connection with the transportation of milk into New York city."

Buchalter Will Be Tried

New York, July 22 (AP)—Despite the fact he already is serving a 14-year sentence in a federal prison, Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, industrial racketeer, must stand trial in Brooklyn on a murder charge. Federal Circuit Judge Learned Hand ruled late yesterday that his court could not order a stay of proceedings pending the conclusion of litigation to determine whether Buchalter legally could be detained outside of a federal prison. The murder charge against Buchalter arose out of the slaying of Joseph Rosen, a Brooklyn storekeeper.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 22 (AP)—Stocks churned rapidly in today's market but most leaders were unable to extend Monday's sharp rally by more than fractions.

Blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares changed hands at the opening and, for a brief interval, the ticker tape fell behind for the first time since December 14. Customers then began to cash in on the bulge and the pace slowed. While minor advances ruled near the final hour, many issues were unchanged or down a shade. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 1,400,000 shares.

The turnover of 470,000 shares in the first hour was the biggest for that period since November 8. Ralls settled down in the wake of their break-through in previous resistance levels which, brokers said, was responsible partly for the belated buying rush on Monday.

Wall Street still was cheerful over business, the outlook for more lenient price restriction legislation and a turn for the better in the war news. Thoughts of inflation also propped sentiment.

Rail bonds pushed upward. Cotton futures jumped to new 11-year peaks but eventually slipped from the best.

Among stocks in a long list of 1941 tops were Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Standard Oil (N. J.), Texas Corp., Anaconda, Kennecott, Western Union, J. I. Case, International Harvester and Goodrich.

War Use Seen For Helicopter

Has New Type Motor Which Employs Blower To Turn Wing Fan.

ATLANTA.—An air-driven helicopter that operates on the same principle as a water-driven rotary lawn sprinkler is emerging from the experimental stage at the Daniel Guggenheim School for Aeronautics.

Director Montgomery Knight predicts "great defense possibilities" for the offspring of his one-passenger model, now under construction. The working model, which resembles a streamlined glider's fuselage with a single-bladed fan revolving over it, will be ready for ground tests in September. Trial flights will follow "as soon as feasible," Knight said.

"It ought to make an excellent reconnaissance plane," Knight said, "and its ability to hover motionless over a target while the pilot aims and releases his projectiles would give it far greater bombing accuracy than a high-speed plane which is over the target for only a fleeting instant."

Motor Blower Used.

The spinning, fanlike wing that drives Knight's helicopter is powered by air drawn in at the front of the ship and forced out through a small jet in the end of the wing by a motor blower.

The revolving wings of previous helicopters have been motor-driven, and the resultant torque has been the stumbling block in their successful production, according to Knight.

"Motor torque has tended to cause the fuselage to rotate in the opposite direction to the wing," Knight said, "but by using air to drive our revolving wing we eliminate this torque, thus giving the ship the necessary stability."

Knight said wind-tunnel tests at the school's aeronautical laboratories had proved the advantage of the air-driven wing.

A 75-horsepower motor, similar to those used in light planes, will drive the air blower for Knight's working model. He estimates the ship will attain a speed of 100 miles an hour and go 20 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

Will 'Stop on a Dime.'

The ship will ascend and descend vertically, "stop on a dime" in mid-air, land "like a feather," and be virtually crash-proof, Knight said.

The rotary wing, as well as the fuselage will be of plywood construction. The ship will weigh 500 pounds empty and 750 when loaded, according to specifications.

The wing will be 10 feet long and two feet wide. It will be attached at one end, and counter-balanced by a small weight. Knight estimates that his air jet will rotate the wing at a top speed of 350 miles an hour.

Lipstick for Army Girls Sold in British Camps

LONDON.—When the sergeant-major flees to the navy, army and air force institute canteen for a draft of cool and bitter, what does he find on the shelf now? Lipstick.

That is one of the contributions of women to the modern army, and it stands there beside the boot polish.

Girls of the Women's Royal Naval Service, the Auxiliary Territorial Service and the Women's Auxiliary Air Force are all using discretion in their use of cosmetics, the institute states in announcing their new "line."

They have to. Battalion orders still insist that they shall, but it does not mean there is any lipstick inspection. If there were, they would be found to match up with the uniforms, for they have all been carefully chosen.

Straight pillar-box red is for the Wrens—no blue or brown undertones. Warm brownish red is for the girls in khaki, and they are advised to avoid pinky shades in powder. A soft red with more pink in it is for the pride of the women's army—the air force girls.

Subway Dust Tested

Whether dust in London's subways is a possible danger to health has caused much concern among authorities since the stations have been used as air raid shelters. Samples taken from a number of stations are being subjected to exhaustive tests.

Japan is seeking to expand iron and steel production in (Manchu-kuo), says the Department of Commerce.

Woodstock

By JANE KENNEDY

Tuesday, July 22—As the day approaches for the big event of the town, the Library Fair, to be held Thursday, July 31, rumor runs high that this will be a bigger and better fair than ever, and, since the library depends almost entirely on the funds raised on fair day to carry it through the year, everyone is working and planning to make it a great success.

There are nine days to go before the fair but the donations have been arriving in such numbers that the committee has found it necessary to take a little shop, where gifts coming in can be received properly and housed before they are set up on the fair grounds on the 31st. The shop is situated back of that of the village shoemaker, on the main road leading into town. Donations of books go however, to the Library building. The receiving shop will be open from July 24 until the 30th and there will be people to receive gifts mornings from 10 to 12 and in the afternoons from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Julia Searing Leaycraft, who is doing publicity this year tells me that there will be many interesting entertainment specialties. The committee has been fortunate in getting Frank Y. Hall to donate his services during the afternoon of the fair day. Many of the colony's well known artists will entertain as musicians and there is one specialty which the artists will put on which is being kept a secret so that you will have something to guess about. I can promise that it is fun and the sort of thing the layman often wishes he could see.

As in other years there will be chances to get many beautiful things, I know there will be etchings, drawings and lithographs. There will be many booths selling toys, curios and I hear there will be one table devoted entirely to the sale of china and glass, there will be a few pieces for collectors. Miss Elsa Kimball and Miss Josephine Barnard will conduct the sale of new and old costumes, this seems to me an interesting feature as everyone likes to have costumes on hand for parties and they ought to be good coming out of Woodstock where costumes can be appreciated for almost any party occasion.

The library serves a great need for many people not only those living in the town, but reaches out to people for many miles about. It has many friends and it is hoped that many more people will come to the village that day and have fun at the annual fair and in that way make possible for the library to keep up its good collections and service to the community.

I saw Vladimir Padwa, noted pianist and teacher, and spoke to him about the piano quartet of which he is a performer. The concert is heard every Friday at 10 o'clock on the Blue Net Work of WJZ. These concerts have been enjoyed very much by music lovers and have proved so popular that due to the requests of children listeners and their parents there is now a Sunday morning concert at 11:15 on the same station. Mr. Padwa told me that the idea of a piano quartet is a novel one here in America but that it has been done in Europe. Besides his work with this group, Mr. Padwa is busy teaching his many pupils from Kingston and Woodstock.

Two Men Are Injured In Crash at Lake Katrine

Two local men were injured last evening in a two-car crash on route 9-W just south of the Lake Katrine intersection. The cars, operated by Christopher Perry, Jr., of 12 Clifton Avenue, coming toward Kingston, and the car operated by James Gaddis of Harwich street, going north, collided. Leo Kregloskie, Jr., of 125 Highland Avenue, suffered from shock, cuts and contusions of the head and scalp. He was riding in the Perry car. Dwight Harvey of Otis Avenue, riding in the Gaddis car, was also injured. Perry told Deputy Sheriff McCullough and Young that brilliant headlights from the other car had caused him to become temporarily blinded and caused the cars to sideswipe. Both cars were badly damaged.

Three-quarter million more cars were financed in January-April, 1941, than in the 1940 corresponding period, the Department of Commerce reports.

More than a billion and a half coconuts are produced annually in Ceylon, the Department of Commerce says.

Iceland, America's newest eastern frontier, is a land of stony soil, tough people, simmering volcanoes and frigid glaciers, but it has a moderate climate, the oldest parliament in the world, universal education, an advanced program of social benefits and practically no crime. These exclusive pictures were taken by officers of Swedish-American Line ships.

REYKJAVIK, the capital, has 28,000 of Iceland's 118,000 population. The Althing, or parliament, was founded in 930. When the Germans occupied Denmark, with which Iceland was a sister kingdom, Iceland decided to handle its own foreign affairs.

BOILING SPRINGS are found everywhere in Iceland, an outcropping of volcanic rock about the area of Kentucky. There are 107 volcanoes and the land is 13% covered with glaciers. Women wash their clothes in the springs. The bars are to keep them from falling in.

THE TWO-WHEELED CART, drawn by a sinewy native pony, is the taxicab of Reykjavik. There are only about 2,000 automobiles in Iceland and no railroads. The island has good telephone connections and is linked to Europe by submarine cables.

THE FISHING INDUSTRY is the most important in Iceland's commercial life, although only 18,000 persons work at it compared to 50,000 in farming. Hay is the chief farm crop; it is fed to sheep and cattle. These women split fish open and spread them on the rocks to dry.

LEIBHARDT

Leibhardt, July 22—The regular service will be held in the Methodist Church Wednesday evening, July 23 at 8:30 o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. D. Fletcher of Kerhonkson.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Lindgren entertained friends from New York last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Murimerstein entertained relatives over the week-end at their cottage here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schedinger of Bellaire, L. I., spent the week-end at their home here. They also entertained several friends from Long Island.

Mrs. Melinda Gorsline called recently on Mrs. Herman Quick.

Mrs. Lena Lypka has employment at Mettachahonts.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Markle called Sunday evening on Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hornbeck and mother, Mrs. Julia Hornbeck, also on Mr. and Mrs. John Schedinger.

Millard Davis of Kerhonkson and Paul Nerz, manager of the Accord Dairyman's League milk plant, called in this area Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Brown and family of Kerhonkson visited Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Van Gasbeck and children have moved back to Rochester Center from Delaware county to the home of her father, Hector Embree.

H. Petry and family of New York spent the week-end at their home in Rochester.

Ber. Lymunon is employed at the home of Homer Hornbeck.

Mrs. Hilda Clark has returned to New York after visiting with relatives here, Mettachahonts and Napanoch.

Oh, Well... We Didn't Like the Second Floor Anyhow!

YOU rarely, if ever, pull your own teeth, or design your own automobile! You expect, and require, help in these chores... so why plan your new home alone? Building is a complex operation, and, therefore, requires technical knowledge. Merely buying a set of plans, and hiring an experienced contractor, does not guarantee perfect results. Many mistakes can appear at completion, in spite of these precautions, because there is more to the job than what they do.

I doubt if any mistakes you might make could be as bazaar as those illustrated, but minor mistakes in planning may result in glaring faults later... faults that are expensive to repair or replace. We have information about building, from start to finish, that we would like to let you use. We want to help make your new home something you are truly proud to own.

Let's start planning today. Our information and estimates are free of cost and obligation.
